Promises Top Cooperation With Citizens

Job Left Vacant By Death of Elmer Merriman

Robert Temple, 29, of 335 Fairview Ave., is Circleville's new chief of police.

Temple, a veteran policeman with almost nine years service, was named following a civil service promotional examination here last night. Sgt. Turney Ross was the other applicant taking the exam.

Civil service officials today said Temple was declared chief by an 0.4 per cent margin. The applicant with the highest score automatically assumed the top police post.

In another examination held last night, Wesley Barton and Richard Anderson qualified to fill an eligible list for patrolmen. Both currently are working as special policemen.

Only three applicants took the examination for the eligible list. Eight returned applications, but five were disqualified for failure to meet requirements as specified by civil service regulations.

TEMPLE, current sergeant of the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift, succeeds Elmer Merriman who died March 4 following a stroke.

The new chief started his career as a police officer in the spring of 1951 as an extra patrolman under Chief William McCrady. In September, 1951, he qualified as a regular, then obtained leave of absence to enter military service. He served two years as a platoon sergeant at Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland.

In November, Temple came back to the police department as a patrolman. In 1958 he was promoted to sergeant to fill a vacancy created by the retirement of Sgt. George Green.

Chief Temple was born in Ross County, but moved to Pickaway County at an early age. He attended school at Pickaway and Walnut Twp.

Temple and his wife, Beulah, have one son, Kenneth, 6. Mrs. Temple is employed at the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.

Civil service officials said Temple and Ross both scored well on the comprehensive examination. They said the slight difference in the final score was a tribute to both applicants.

Miller Fissel, Circleville Safety Director, said Temple will be appointed officially following routine procedure as required by civil service regulations. He said the new chief will be subject to a 90-day probationary period.

Temple today said he is looking forward to assuming his new post. He said he hopes to do a good job, with the ultimate aim of serving Circleville well.

HE SAID he will expect his men to show 100 per cent courtesy to (Continued on Page 2)

Pope, Dying Girl In Long Audience

ROME (AP) — Catherine Hudson, a 7-year-old American girl suffering from fatal leukemia, flies home Wednesday with her fondest wish fulfilled: Pope John XXIII gave her an extraordinary, 40-minute private audience.

"We never imagined anything so wonderful," exclaimed Catherine's wonderful mother, Marlene Hudson of Oklahoma City. "The audience was a miracle, a miracle."

Private papal audiences normally are restricted to diplomats and other high officials.

Through interpreters the 78-year-old pontiff chatted with the dark-haired child and showed her around the little throne room of the papal apartment. Catherine wore the white dress and veil in which she made her first communion a year ago.

Columbus Woman Seriously Hurt in Crash on Route 23

Mrs. Jean Dees Moravick, 35, Columbus, was seriously injured at 9:20 p. m. yesterday in a one-car crash at Routes 23 and 762 about 11 miles north of here.

Mrs. Moravick, driver of the car, was rushed to Mercy Hospital, Columbus, with head injuries and a fractured left hip. She was reported in "critical" condition today.

Mrs. Moravick's son, Franklin Lee, 6, was taken to Mercy Hospital for a possible concussion and a laceration inside the lip. He was the only passenger in the auto.

Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said Mrs. Moravick apparently lost control of her car which was headed north on Route 23. He said the auto left the right side of the highway, skidded 303 feet in the ditch and rolled over three times before coming to a halt upright on its wheels.

DEPUTY Radcliff said the woman was thrown 23 feet from the halted car. She was found lying face down unconscious. Her son managed to scramble out of the wreckage after the car came to a halt.

The deputy said the 1956 model car was demolished. He said the impact with the ditch ripped the right front tire from the wheel.

Curriculum Here To Be Strengthened By Shift to Neighborhood Schools

Children go to school for an education. Education is the result of teachers and curriculum.

Let's take a look at the changes in curriculum, if any, necessitated by the shift of 7th and 8th grades to neighborhood units. The shift will be made in 1961 if the $1,475,500 school bond issue passes May 3.

First, there will be no deletions from the program, although emphasis will be shifted in some cases in the 7th and 8th Grades.

Basically, the program is one of concentration on the tried and true three R's — Reading, 'Ritin' and 'Rithmetic. It is away from the broad, activity-laden curriculum of the now out-moded, so-called "progressive" education.

This means getting back to basics. Teaching in depth, English, math, history and science.

IN TODAY'S fast-moving, technical world, real understanding of math, English and history are essential for every student. Hitting these vital areas of basic knowledge with a "lick and a promise" just won't do, these days.

The local school system is under constant surveillance by administrators and school board as to what the children are studying. This is as steady a task as making sure there is gasoline for the school buses.

To this end the curriculum is being shifted constantly to take advantage of new knowledge, texts and techniques. The school board has a permanent curriculum study committee.

If the bond issue passes, there will be no changes in the high school curriculum other than the normal year-to-year improvements.

The same holds true in the elementary grades, 1 through 6. Only in Grades 7 and 8 are there any shifts that might be labeled as other than normal. The changes easily could be called normal improvement.

A general science course in the 8th grade will be added. The course now being taught in conservation will become just a six to eight-week unit of the science course.

Manual training and home economics will be taught at the individual schools instead of in the "shop" at the high school. Here boys will receive training in woodwork, metal work, leather and plastics. Girls will be taught sewing, metal work, leather and plastics.

A marked improvement is scheduled in teaching both writing and spelling. New writing and spelling programs from the first through eighth grades will be in use next year for the first time. In the past there has been no uniform program of teaching writing and spelling.

UNDER THE neighborhood plan teachers will have more than one period with the students. They will be able to give them subject matter for approximately 30 minutes, and then spend 30 minutes in supervising study of this subject.

It is clear that this arrangement will instill better understanding of the subject in the student and better understanding of the student in the teacher.

Necessarily the classes will be smaller in such areas as manual training and physical education. More attention can be given pupils on an individual basis.

This is just another step in the continuous process of curriculum improvement, and a good one.

Havana Chiefs Won't Talk

American Pleas Rejected by Havana

HAVANA (AP) — An insurgent band led by a former Castro officer was reported bottled up in the Sierra Maestra Mountains of eastern Cuba today, but the government refused to talk about it.

Unconfirmed reports said troops and militiamen in Oriente province were moving in on an encircled group of about 40 guerrillas led by Manuel Beaton, former captain in Fidel Castro's revolutionary forces. It was from these mountains that Castro launched his revolution.

Maj. Calixto Garcia, commander of the mountain area, refused to discuss the reports with newsmen who reached him by telephone at his headquarters in Palma Soriano.

Military authorities in Havana and officials in Oriente province said they knew nothing about Beaton or his guerrillas.

The semi-official newspaper Revolution said Saturday that Beaton was heading a gang of bandits in the area. The paper accused the band of killing a peasant, Francisco Tamayo, who had been associated with Castro during the revolution. But the Havana newspaper El Chief later identified Tamayo as chief of a government army unit.

Another unconfirmed report said a second guerrilla band was roaming the Sierra Cristal, a mountain range north of the Sierra Maestra.

Beaton recently escaped from Havana's La Cabana military fortress, where he had been held on charges of killing an army major and two soldiers at the gates of Camp Libertad, outside the capital, several months ago.

Beaton denied he was responsible for the shooting. Friends said he had been made a scapegoat. Meanwhile, Castro's government has rejected an American plea to return two American fliers shot down in Cuba after a sneak flight from Florida.

The State Department, disclosing this Monday, announced also its own rejection of three Cuban protests on other matters.

At the time the two fliers were arrested, Cuba said they were trying to spirit out of the country a former agent of ex-President Fulgencio Batista, who was deposed by Castro's revolution.

Carl Radcliff Resigns Post

Service Director Quits as of May 1

Carl Radcliff, 228 E. Franklin St., today resigned his post as City Service Director.

In a letter to Mayor Ben H. Gordon, Radcliff said he is leaving the job for "other employment, where possibilities for advancement are greater than my present position."

It is reported he will take a position with the C. F. Repligle Co. Radcliff has been Service Director since he was appointed to the post by Mayor Gordon in January 1958. The resignation is effective May 1. Radcliff will work the balance of this week, then go on two-week's accumulated vacation.

Mayor Gordon said he has no one in particular in mind to fill the job. He said, "I must be very careful in the selection. This is one of the most important jobs in the city."

The Service Director is in charge of street and sewer work, the city buildings and construction work, such as issuance of building permits. The job pays $4,400 annually.

Job Picture Is Darkened

U.S. Unemployment Climbs during March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment jumped 275,000 in March, the biggest increase for a March since World War II. Employment declined by 253,000.

The Labor Department reporting these figures today, blamed the darkened job picture almost entirely on heavy snows and generally bad weather in March. It predicted a sharp rebound in April.

Employment dropped from 64,520,000 in February to 64,267,000 in March. Normally, employment increases during March by about 450,000.

Unemployment rose from 3,931,000 to 4,206,000. Normally, the idle total declines by about 180,000 in March as compared with February.

The figures meant that 94 per cent of all Americans seeking work had jobs in March, but that 5.4 per cent of job seekers couldn't find employment.

Seymour Wolfbein, Labor Department manpower chief, said an indication of the March weather's impact on the job situation was a one-million increase in the number of people usually working full time who worked only part time during the mid-March survey week. The total of such workers rose to 2,200,000 in March.

Wolfbein added that he saw nothing in the figures warranting fear of an economic decline. He noted, however, that there have been some job layoffs in the auto industry.

One factor contributing to the employment decline was a drop of about 50,000 in farm employment to a March total of 4,565,000 — the lowest farm job total for any month in many decades, possibly since before the turn of the century.

On Standard Time

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Election boards throughout Ohio will operate on Eastern Standard Time for the May 3 primaries, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said today.

He made the announcement to avoid confusion in communities that switch to daylight saving time on April 24.

Visit Your Local Schools Tomorrow

Every Circleville citizen is invited to tour local schools tomorrow. It is the Visitation Day program, designed to make citizens familiar with the condition of the schools and classes.

The program is part of the promotion of the $1,475,500 bond issue which will be on the ballot May 3.

Schools, according to Superintendent George A. Hartman, will operate "as usual." Teachers have been advised to maintain normal routines and schedules.

Callers are urged to go to school between 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. For those who wish, there will be two guided tours of the schools tomorrow. Buses will leave Circleville High School at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Citizens are asked to be sure to visit the three older school buildings — High Street, Franklin Street and Walnut Street. However, for comparison, they also should visit one of the newer school buildings, such as Mound Street, South Court Street or Atwater.

If the bond issue passes May 3 the three old, sub-standard buildings will be replaced for the 1961-62 school year. Additions will be made to Atwater, Mound and South Court schools and a new neighborhood elementary school will be built in the Nicholas Drive area.

City Churches Plan Special Services during Holy Week

City churches will hold special services in observance of Holy Week starting today.

Some city churches will participate in Union Good Friday Service at 2 p. m. at the First EUB Church. The Rev. G. H. Niswender, Calvary EUB Church, will be the speaker.

Schedules are as follows: Holy Week services are slated at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow and Thursday at the Calvary EUB Church.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at the mid-week prayer service at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

THE REV. Paul Wachs will present a special sermon at 7:30 p. m. (Continued on Page 2)

The Hallowed House

Ominous Fatefulness Fills Banquet Hall as Jesus Predicts His Betrayal

Editor's note: The high priest had already ordered the arrest of Christ as the widow Mary of Cyprus prepared to receive the hunted men in her home for their final rendezvous. This is the second of five stories on the events that night and thereafter at "The Hallowed House."

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Glowing candles cast a dappled pattern of lights and shadows on the walls of the cenacle, the second floor banquet room of the house of Mary of Cyprus. A gleaming white cloth covered the long, low table.

She was to be hostess for supper this night to a band of wanted men, and their bold chieftain.

Quietly, with low murmurings and whispers, she and the other women moved to and fro, arranging the wine cups, bowls of parsley greens, the roasted eggs, sauces plates of bitter herbs, the bread and spiced figs and almonds.

The widow Mary sought to fix her full attention on the task at hand, but shapeless premonitions stabbed at her, like the flitting shadows. Making of this premature paschal feast for indicted men had about it a somber finality.

Her brother, Joseph, had informed her that the high priest, Caiaphas, already had ordered their arrest, as soon as it could be done without public notice or clamor. Her hands trembled as she laid out the spoon-like ligulas. She circled the table once more, patting and adjusting the cushions and rugs on the couches beside it. She paused, inspecting the whole tableau. At least the room reflected a gracious warmth, an inviting felicity.

Outside, the faint cries of the Roman guards, posted for the first watch of night, threaded along the city walls from tower to tower, fading in distance. Nearby, in the street, a dog barked sharply. She started.

It would be Jesus and His men coming to her house. Her son of 17 years, John Mark, came racing up the steps ahead of them, announcing their arrival in panting breath. Their heavy footfalls sounded on the stairs and then the curtain parted and He was there.

She went forward, kneeling, "Hag sameah, Adon." She had not (Continued on Page 3)

There were reports state police had worked out a plan and requested permission from their Richmond headquarters to put it into operation. They hoped to be able to capture Jack Jennings, 18, without further unnecessary risk to the young girl—his sister-in-law, Barbara Butts.

Visit Your Local Schools Tomorrow

Every Circleville citizen is invited to tour local schools tomorrow. It is the Visitation Day program, designed to make citizens familiar with the condition of the schools and classes.

The program is part of the promotion of the $1,475,500 bond issue which will be on the ballot May 3.

Schools, according to Superintendent George A. Hartman, will operate "as usual". Teachers have been advised to maintain normal routines and schedules.

Callers are urged to go to school between 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. For those who wish, there will be two guided tours of the schools tomorrow. Buses will leave Circleville High School at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Citizens are asked to be sure to visit the three older school buildings — High Street, Franklin Street and Walnut Street. However, for comparison, they also should visit one of the newer school buildings, such as Mount Street, South Court Street or Atwater.

If the bond issue passes May 3 the three old, sub-standard buildings will be replaced for the 1961-62 school year. Additions will be made to Atwater, Mount and South Court schools and a new neighborhood elementary school will be built in the Nicholas Drive area.

City Churches Plan Special Services during Holy Week

City churches will hold special services in observance of Holy Week starting today.

Some city churches will participate in Union Good Friday Service at 2 p. m. at the First EUB Church. The Rev. G. H. Niswender, Calvary EUB Church, will be the speaker.

Schedules are as follows: Holy Week services are slated at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow and Thursday at the Calvary EUB Church. Holy Communion will be celebrated at the mid-week prayer service at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The Hallowed House

Ominous Fatefulness Fills Banquet Hall as Jesus Predicts His Betrayal

Editor's note: The high priest had already ordered the arrest of Christ as the widow Mary of Cyprus prepared to receive the hunted men in her home for their final rendezvous. This is the second of five stories on the events that night and thereafter at "The Hallowed House."

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Glowing candles cast a dappled pattern of lights and shadows on the walls of the cenacle, the second floor banquet room of the house of Mary of Cyprus. A gleaming white cloth covered the long, low table.

She was to be hostess for supper this night to a band of wanted men, and their bold chief.

Quietly, with low murmurings and whispers, she and the other women moved to and fro, arranging the wine cups, bowls of parsley greens, the roasted eggs, sauces plates of bitter herbs, the bread and spiced figs and almonds.

The widow Mary sought to fix her full attention on the task at hand, but shapeless premonitions stabbed at her, like the flitting paschal feast for indicted men had about it a somber finality.

Her brother, Joseph, had informed her that the high priest, Caiaphas, already had ordered their arrest, as soon as it could be done without public notice or clamor. Her hands trembled as she laid out the spoon-like ligulas. She circled the table once more, patting and adjusting the cushions and rugs on the couches beside it. She paused, inspecting the room's tableau. At least the room reflected a gracious warmth, an inviting felicity.

Outside, the faint cries of the Roman guards, posted for the first watch of night, threaded along the city walls from tower to tower, fading in distance. Nearby, in the street, a dog barked sharply. She started.

It would be Jesus and His men coming to her house. Her son of 17 years, John Mark, came racing up the steps ahead of them, announcing their arrival in panting breath. Their heavy footfalls sounded on the stairs and then the curtain parted and He was there.

She went forward, kneeling, "Hag sameah, Adon." She had not (Continued on Page 3)

Mary heard Jesus say, "One of you will betray me."

'Stop-Kennedy' Movement Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Talk of a stop Kennedy movement flared in West Virginia today at the same time talk of a stop Nixon movement seemed snuffed in New York.

In West Virginia, political observers wondered whether a host of Democratic presidential candidates had thrown their support to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in the state's May 10 primary.

Their aim: to halt the momentum of Sen. John F. Kennedy's drive toward the party's nomination. The Massachusetts senator and Humphrey are the only candidates entered in the primary.

In New York, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller opposed circulation of a letter that belittled the qualifications of Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the presidency. Some Republican supporters of Rockefeller had signed the letter.

Nixon, in San Francisco to open the baseball season told a newsman he was not disturbed by the letter and, in fact, thought it might add spice to the campaign.

Adlai Stevenson continued to draw support for the Democratic nomination despite his repeated statements that he is not a candidate.

The question of a possible gang-up on Kennedy in West Virginia was raised by former Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (D-N.Y.), a Kennedy supporter.

In Wheeling, Roosevelt said Kennedy was "running against the combined 'opposition' of Humphrey, Stevenson, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.)."

Kennedy echoed this at a news conference on the Capitol esplanade in Charleston.

"Sen. Humphrey and I took the risk of defeat by entering," he said. "It seems to me that I'm entitled to run against one opponent."

In Washington, Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W.Va.) bolstered the view that at least some Humphrey support was coming from those more interested in hurting Kennedy than helping Humphrey. A supporter of Johnson, Byrd announced his backing of Humphrey in the primary.

Humphrey denied any gang-up. "Poor little Jack," he told a newsman. "That's a shame. And you can quote me on that."

"I wish he would grow up and stop acting like a boy. What does he want—all the votes?"

Although Rockefeller deplored and disavowed the anti-Nixon letter in New York, there were still some faint rumbles hinting that Nixon might have a fight at the Republican National Convention.

In Salt Lake City, Utah, for example, Sen. Henry C. Dvorshak (R-Idaho) said, "There'll be some excitement at the convention, you wait and see."

"Not from Rockefeller himself, but from Rockefeller supporters," he added.

A primary in Illinois today will test Nixon's vote-getting ability. Although he has no opposition on the Republican ballot, his vote will be compared with the totals received by Republicans in the past.

Foreign policy is expected to be the subject of a speech tonight by Stevenson at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville.

Although the 1952 and 1956 Democratic nominee denies he is a candidate, Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) said his survey of other candidates showed that they believe Stevenson is the man most likely to win the nomination if they don't.

Trustees List Road Mileage

Pickaway County township trustees today reported the number of miles of roads in their townships to a State Highway Department official here.

This annual procedure is to report the correct number of miles of roads in each township so state distribution of funds under the Wheeler Bill may be ascertained.

The Wheeler Bill affords state funds for townships based on the road mileage in each township. The distribution amounts to approximately $60 per mile depending on number of license tags sold.

The Planning Survey Section of the Highway Department recently completed a survey of the county and township roads.

DUE TO THE discrepancies of mileage totals as reported by the individual township and the mileage inventory as found by the Planning Survey, a detailed reconciliation of the townships' mileage is necessary prior to making final payment of 1959 license revenues.

Townships reporting will be eligible for partial payment of the 1960 distribution.

Schergales, 34, that Castro's regime cooked up the flight to embarrass the United States.

Cuba's refusal to return the men heightened Washington suspicions on this score. Cuba said Schergales and Howard Rundquist, 33, are subject to Cuban court action for a crime against Cuba.

The United States had wanted to investigate Schergales and Rundquist for possible violation of American laws in making their secret flight.

One of three U.S. notes delivered to Cuba spurned a Cuban protest over a new U.S. clampdown on sale of helicopters to Cuba.

The U.S. reply said a policy was begun two years ago of closely studying all Caribbean arms requests. It said arms shipments had been denied to Batista before Castro.

"It was the profound hope of the United States that with the establishment of the present government of Cuba, peace and tranquility would be restored to the Caribbean area," the note said.

"This hope has not been realized."

In another note, the United States rejected as unfounded a Cuban charge that former Batista army men are being employed at the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo.

The note also refused a request to re-hire a Cuban labor leader who had been fired at the base.

The third note turned down a Cuban request to keep U.S. fruit inspectors in Cuba. These Agriculture Department inspectors had been sent to Cuba in 1955 to help Cuban shippers meet U.S. marketing standards for fruits and vegetables.

The note said the inspectors were needed elsewhere and that Cuba had been notified last December that they would be withdrawn by the end of February.

Local Auditor Distributes Tax Funds

The Pickaway County Auditor's office last week distributed the undivided general tax and inheritance taxes to the state and county's political subdivisions.

Total general taxes were $114,468.82. Inheritance taxes amounted to $27,525.18.

A breakdown of general tax distributions is: to state World War II veterans' fund, $9,619.11; state Korean Conflict fund, $9,623.85;

Scioto Sandusky Conservancy District, $2.63; county tuberculosis hospital fund, $12,041.60; county health, $6,250; county general fund, $108,978; county real estate assessment fund, $8,422.15;

TOWNSHIPS, $76,615.75; county corporations, $52,565.99; and county schools, $799,552.74.

Inheritance tax distributions went to state fund, $8,581.40; county general fund, $2,234.87; county schools, $2,948.32; township general funds, $5,197.80; and county corporations, $8,564.79.

Mother Is Sentenced For Smothering Child

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Louise Gibson, 31, of Mansfield, convicted of smothering her five-week-old baby, was sentenced Monday to a 1-20-year indeterminate sentence at Marysville Reformatory for Women. Pleading guilty of manslaughter, Mrs. Gibson admitted slaying the infant and placing it in a storage locker at a bus depot. County Prosecutor Forest Ashcraft said Mrs. Gibson told the court she was depressed and thought the baby would be better off in another world.

time Holy Communion will be observed.

St. Philip's Episcopal Church will hold Maundy Thursday celebration of Holy Communion at 7:30 p. m. A 3-hour Good Friday Service is slated to start at noon at the church. An Easter Even Service will be held at 3:30 p. m. Saturday for members of the church school.

In Trinity Lutheran Church at 7:30 p. m. Thursday and Friday Holy Communion will be celebrated. Pastor Carl G. Zehner will present the sermon "Palm Branches or Hammer and Nails."

The Adult Choir will lead the singing Thursday evening and the Youth Choir will lead the singing Friday.

Good Friday Service will be held in Trinity Lutheran Church at 2 p. m. Pastor Zehner will present the sermon "The Light of the Cross" based on I Cor. 1:23-24. The Adult Choir will lead the singing under the direction of Fred Hebel.

Nursery will be open during the 3 services this week.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at the Maundy Thursday service at 7 p. m. at the Presbyterian Church. Members of the Catechism Class will receive their first communion.

Reservations for Easter breakfast at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, following the early service must be made by the end of the week by contacting a member of the Westminster Fellowship, who will sponsor the breakfast at the Presbyterian Church.

SPECIAL HOLY WEEK services at St. Joseph's Catholic Church started Sunday with the Blessing of Palms at the 8:15 a. m. Mass.

A procession was held in which all members attending church participated. Reading of the Passion of Our Lord, according to St. Matthew, was read aloud by altar boys.

Yesterday, today and tomorrow the Mass is celebrated at 8:15 a. m. On Holy Thursday, the day Our Lord instituted the Holy Eucharist, Mass all over the Columbus Diocese will be celebrated in the evening so more persons may attend.

Mass at St. Joseph's will start at 6:30 p. m. with fasting for Holy Communion starting at 3:30 p. m. All persons are urged to attend Communion at this Mass.

Confessions will be heard from 4 until 6 p. m. Thursday. Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament will start Thursday evening, continue through the night and Friday morning.

On Good Friday the church will mournfully commemorate the death of Our Blessed Lord on the cross at Calvary.

The three-hour devotion Friday starts at noon. Communion service starts at 2 p. m. Fasting for Communion starts at 11:30 a. m.

Parishioners are asked to attend this service. Stations of the Cross and a sermon will be at 7:30.

There will be no Holy Saturday morning Mass. The Lenten fast ends at midnight Saturday. The Vigil service starts at 10:30 p. m. Saturday.

THOSE WHO receive at this Mass may not receive on Easter Sunday. Anyone attending the Vigil service is not obliged to attend Mass on Sunday, which will be held at 8:15 and 10:15 a. m.

Confessions will be heard Saturday from 3 until 5 p. m. and 7 until 9 p. m.

Special services will be held at 7:30 p. m. tonight through Sunday at the Gospel Center. Holy Communion will follow the service Thursday.

At 7:30 p. m. Friday a Love Feast and Holy Communion will be held at the Church of Brethren.

Local stores will be closed from 1-3 p. m. Friday in observance of Good Friday services.

The climax to all this Holy Week activity will be celebration of Easter on Sunday.

Monticello's Style Revived For Stevenson

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Not in 13 years has the old house seen anything like this.

Here in Monticello, the beloved home of Thomas Jefferson, Adlai Stevenson dined in high style Monday night. The last similar dinner, according to the curator at Monticello, probably took place in 1824.

That was when Jefferson—old, tired and feeble—held a dinner for General Lafayette on one of his return visits to America. After Jefferson's death in 1826 the house was sold and, while entertaining was done, it was on a much smaller scale.

For years now Monticello has been a national shrine, closed at 5 p. m.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, is here to make a Founder's Day speech tonight at the University of Virginia, set up according to the plans of Jefferson.

Monday night Stevenson was joined by 21 other guests, some of them students at the university, and they ate in a manner as like Jefferson's as can be duplicated in this complicated time.

The place was lit by candles—there's no electricity in the upstairs of Monticello—and the food was brought in from the outside by a caterer. Unlike in the old days, when slaves prepared the meals, the food was passed from hand to hand somewhat in the nature of the old fire bucket brigade from downstairs to the elaborate dining room above.

County Lacks Power To Collect City Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—County auditors lack authority to make city income tax deductions from salaries of county employees, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy ruled today.

The opinion went to Prosecutor George E. Schroeder on Putnam County. A common pleas judge raised the issue after a one percent deduction was made from his salary to Ottawa's city income tax.

Conviction of Actor Reversed on Appeal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The District Court of Appeals has reversed actor Jay Robinson's conviction on narcotics charges and granted him a new trial.

The court criticized the judge who presided at Robinson's trial for interrupting the prosecutor and for "taking over the latter's duties repeatedly." It also ruled the trial judge erred in letting the prosecution introduce allegedly self-incriminating statements.

Lie Test

Given Starlet In Slaying

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Beverly Aadland underwent a lie detector test Monday night and re-told her story of the shooting of William (Billy the Kid) Stanciu.

The test was conducted as part of what homicide detectives termed "an intensive investigation" of the death of the aspiring young actor.

Members of Stanciu's family have hinted the youth may not have shot himself. Homicide detectives said the death was still listed as an apparent suicide.

Beverly, 17-year-old girlfriend of the late Errol Flynn, volunteered for the test.

She said Stanciu, a suitor, came to her Hollywood apartment early Saturday morning and with a revolver in a game of Russian roulette, raped her at gunpoint and then fired a bullet into his own temple.

He died Sunday at General Hospital, booked on suspicion of rape, on his 21st birthday.

Miss Aadland was taken to Juvenile Hall pending a hearing to determine if she has "adequate parental supervision." Her mother, Florence Aadland, 52, with whom she lived, was in a hospital at the time of the shooting—recovering, she said, from a beating administered her by Stanciu, who had dated the girl for six weeks.

In another note, the United States rejected as unfounded a Cuban charge that former Batista army men are being employed at the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo. The note also refused a request to re-hire a Cuban labor leader who had been fired at the base.

The third note turned down a Cuban request to keep U.S. fruit inspectors in Cuba. These Agriculture Department inspectors had been sent to Cuba in 1955 to help Cuban shippers meet U.S. marketing standards for fruits and vegetables.

The note said the inspectors were needed elsewhere and that Cuba had been notified last December that they would be withdrawn by the end of February.

Local Auditor Distributes Tax Funds

The Pickaway County Auditor's office last week distributed the undivided general tax and inheritance taxes to the state and county's political subdivisions.

Total general taxes were $114,468.82. Inheritance taxes amounted to $27,525.18.

A breakdown of general tax distributions is: to state World War II veterans' fund, $9,619.11; state Korean Conflict fund, $9,623.85;

Mother Is Sentenced For Smothering Child

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Louise Gibson, 31, of Mansfield, convicted of smothering her five-week-old baby, was sentenced Monday to a 1-20-year indeterminate sentence at Marysville Reformatory for Women.

Pleading guilty of manslaughter, Mrs. Gibson admitted slaying the infant and placing it in a storage locker at a bus depot. County Prosecutor Forest Ascraft said Mrs. Gibson told the court she was depressed and thought the baby would be better off in another world.

County Lacks Power To Collect City Tax
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—County auditors lack authority to make city income tax deductions from salaries of county employees, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy ruled today.

The opinion went to Prosecutor George E. Schroeder on Putnam County. A common pleas judge raised the issue after a one per cent deduction was made from his salary to Ottawa's city income tax.

Conviction of Actor Reversed on Appeal
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The District Court of Appeals has reversed actor Jay Robinson's conviction on narcotics charges and granted him a new trial.

The court criticized the judge who presided at Robinson's trial for interrupting the prosecutor and for "taking over the latter's duties repeatedly." It also ruled the trial judge erred in letting the prosecution introduce allegedly self-incriminating statements.

Monticello's Style Revived For Stevenson

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Not in 13 years has the old house seen anything like this.

Here in Monticello, the beloved home of Thomas Jefferson, Adlai Stevenson dined in high style Monday night. The last similar dinner, according to the curator at Monticello, probably took place in 1824.

That was when Jefferson—old, tired and feeble—held a dinner for General Lafayette on one of his return visits to America. After Jefferson's death in 1826 the house was sold and, while entertaining was done, it was on a much smaller scale.

For years now Monticello has been a national shrine, closed at 5 p. m.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, is here to make a Founder's Day speech tonight at the University of Virginia, set up according to the plans of Jefferson.

Monday night Stevenson was joined by 21 other guests, some of them students at the university, and they ate in a manner as like Jefferson's as can be duplicated in this complicated time.

The place was lit by candles—there's no electricity in the upstairs of Monticello—and the food was brought in from the outside by a caterer. Unlike in the old days, when slaves prepared the meals, the food was passed from hand to hand somewhat in the nature of the old fire bucket brigade from downstairs to the elaborate dining room above.

The chief said he intends to split his work accordingly so he can spend time with all three work shifts of the department and be available 24 hours a day if needed.

Lie Test Given Starlet In Slaying

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Beverly Aadland underwent a lie detector test Monday night and re-told her story of the shooting of William (Billy the Kid) Stanciu.

The test was conducted as part of what homicide detectives termed "an intensive investigation" of the death of the aspiring young actor.

Members of Stanciu's family have hinted the youth may not have shot himself. Homicide detectives said the death was still listed as an apparent suicide.

Beverly, 17-year-old girlfriend of the late Errol Flynn, volunteered for the test.

She said Stanciu, a suitor, came to her Hollywood apartment early Saturday morning with a revolver in a game of Russian roulette, raped her at gunpoint and then fired a bullet into his own temple.

He died Sunday at General Hospital, booked on suspicion of rape, on his 21st birthday.

Miss Aadland was taken to Juvenile Hall pending a hearing to determine if she has "adequate parental supervision." Her mother, Florence Aadland, 52, with whom she lived, was in a hospital at the time of the shooting—recovering, she said, from a beating administered her by Stanciu, who had dated the girl for six weeks.

Hitchhiking Runaway Boy Finally Halted

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy who hitchhiked free plane and train rides for a 1,200-mile joy ride halfway across the country says next time he'll try for a through flight to the West Coast.

Dean Sierling of Sea Cliff, N.Y., was found by police in a hotel Monday shortly after he had arrived from Chicago on a New York Central train.

His grandmother, Mrs. Robert L. Sierling, of Sea Cliff, said: "I'll see that he gets home but we're going to let the proper authorities escort him here."

The youngster prepared for the trip with two hearty breakfasts Sunday morning at the home of his grandparents, with whom he lives. His parents are separated.

Then, impeccable in a charcoal-gray suit and horn-rimmed glasses, he set out for New York's Idlewild Airport carrying $25 he had saved.

He told United Airlines officials he had lost his ticket and they had "better take me because my aunt" was waiting for me at O'Hare Airport.

In Chicago, he slipped away from airline officials while they were checking a fictitious address he had given them. He took a taxi downtown and boarded a New York Central train.

"I lost my ticket," he said. "They're waiting for me in Buffalo."

Bond Canvass Teams Readied

62 Men Volunteer To Urge Passage

More than 60 men volunteered last night to canvass Circleville School District voters on behalf of the $1,475,500 school bond issue, which is on the May 3 ballot.

The men attended an organizational meeting last night at CHS auditorium. Later they went on a tour of the three local elementary schools — Walnut, High and Franklin.

William Sprague, chairman of the canvassing committee, gave the men brief instructions on how the canvass will work. The men will cover the school district, going from house to house answering questions regarding the bond issue.

They will present to each voter a brochure, outlining why the bond issue money is needed, what will be done with the money and urging citizens to support the bond issue.

Canvassing will begin when the brochures are available, possibly next week.

All told 62 men will take part in the canvass operation. Last night they saw the slide presentation on the bond issue, then asked questions of members of the Circleville Board of Education.

Sprague set up teams of canvassers, one team to each school district precinct.

Shrine Club Sends Kids To Circus

Pickaway County Home children and children aided by the Pickaway County Welfare Department enjoyed a special treat sponsored by the Pickaway County Shrine Club last week.

The children were taken to the famous Shrine Circus in Columbus for an afternoon of fun and merriment. A total of 52 children attended.

The Shrine Club arranged transportation, admissions and special treats for the children. It marked the second year the local group sponsored the activity.

Local Shrine Club members heading the project were Vaughn Hill, James Krinn, Bud Christopher, Wes Edstrom and Robert Hedger.

Robert Wood, president of the local Shrine Club, said his group is looking forward to a similar project next year. The Shrine Club was organized here two years ago.

Greene Champion 8th Grade Speller

David O. Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Greene, Route 2, is the champion speller among 8th grade students in Circleville.

All local 8th grade pupils participated in the contest, held Thursday.

The test was both oral and written. The spelling contest is an annual event sponsored by a Columbus newspaper. Young Greene is slated to enter the state contest in Columbus in May.

Miss Helen Hoffman and Harold Benner teach spelling in Circleville's 8th grade.

The Circleville Fire Department battled a minor grass fire yesterday on Stoutsville Pike near the Starlight Drive-in Theater. Firemen said there was no loss.

Jesus Tells...

Tue AD, No. 12: ominous meant to say it, considering the difficulties that beset Him, but the customary Passover greeting came spontaneously. "A happy holiday, Lord."

He smiled, touching her brow. "Hag sameah, Mary." He embraced her, His mother and the other women, and they withdrew through the inner portal, as the men, still standing, lifted the first cups of wine.

Jesus spoke the blessing, "Blessed art thou, Lord our God, King of the universe, who created the fruit of the vine." They drank, and sang the first hymn, "Praise ye the Lord... Tremble thou Earth, at the presence of the Lord."

Their voices rang deep and resonant, with manly hardihood and vigor. They were a bronzed sinewy crew, herdsman, plowmen, fishers and some lettered men, heavy bearded and with dusty mantles.

They reclined about the table, and Mary moved through the curtains with the watering for the washing of hands, as Jesus remarked, "From now on, I shall not drink of the fruit of the vine until the Kingdom of God comes."

The tone was calm, but the meaning portentous. Later, when the men as if to break the strain began a jousting exchange about who would be accounted greatest, Jesus himself took the basin and washed their feet to their embarrassment and chastened vanity. He said let the greatest be as a servant.

It was all quite odd. Mary watched fascinated from the dim hallway.

The meal continued with intimate comradeship and congeniality, but over it brooded an ominous foreboding. Once, Jesus' gaze fixed on Peter and He said with deep compassion that He had prayed that Peter's faith not fail.

Peter's grizzled chin jutted. "Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison and to death." Jesus shook his head, telling him that before the cock crowed this day, "Thou shalt trice deny that thou knowest Me."

A stunned hush fell over them, and beyond the door, Mary's fingers tightened on a swatch of curtain. She edged to a window, staring across the empty courtyard, hearing Jesus say that the time for needing swords had come.

The night was cool, but perspiration collected on her throat. Would there be violence here this night? She studied the dark corners of the yard fearing some ambush.

She heard Peter's heavy voice. "Lord, behold, there are two swords." A sliding of metal against sheath, and then Jesus again: "It is enough."

They were dipping greens and bread now, the herbs in the fruity sauce of haroset, and Mary signaled a servant to bring the main course of roast lamb, even as further conversation shocked her.

"... One of you shall betray me." Jesus spoke with implacable certainty, and incredulous questioning arose. "Is it I? ... Is it I?" His reply was unprotesting. "He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me."

She heard something like a grunt or snarl, and then a thump, as if a fist hit the table. "That thou doest," Jesus said quietly, "do quickly." The couch scraped on the floor, and footsteps pounded down the outside stairs.

From the window, Mary watched the dark figure lunging toward the forecourt, drawing on his cloak as he disappeared. A frightened, impotent fury rose in her.

The others ate in concentration now, with hardly a word. The succulent aroma of roasted meat wafted into the hall, and Mary again peered through a curtain slit. Jesus gazed over those who remained with a benign satisfaction.

Slowly with His eyes alight with affection, He broke a loaf of bread, blessed it and passed it among them. "Take, eat." He paused, His look washing them with trust. "This is my body which is given for you. This do in remembrance of me."

Then, as they munched the bread in wondering silence, He lifted the fourth and final cup, gave thanks again, saying, "Drink ye all of it; for this is my blood of the New Testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins."

They drained their goblets, and got to their feet, still wondering, but with a sudden, strange boldness in their stance, and fiery brightness in their looks. It disturbed the widow to see it.

Then their voices thundered again in the exuberant gratitude of the hymn of hallel: "O give thanks unto the Lord for He is God: for His mercy endureth forever."

With a parting sign, they slipped on their sandals and filed down the stairs. Watching them, as they crossed the yard, Mary saw Jesus pause, looking back at this house He had honored.

"In my Father's house," He said "are many mansions... I go to prepare a place for you... that where I am, there ye may be also."

She caught her breath, and suddenly she saw her son stealing along behind the disciples and out the gate toward some unknown danger, with only two swords among them.

She ran down the stairs and out the door, crying out his name softly, but Mark was gone. She could see nothing up the dark street, nothing but the ragged black outline of the palms against the sky, but out of the darkness came that steady voice, "... Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

Crownover Mill Bridge Plans Accepted

The Pickaway County Commissioners recently accepted plans for the improvement of a portion of Crownover Mill Road and Crownover Mill bridge over Deer Creek in Monroe and Perry Twp.

The three-member board instructed County Engineer Henry T. McCrady to file the approved plans with the State Highway Department and Bureau of Public Roads for their approval.

The Second National Bank was designated as a public depository of active deposits to receive and retain on deposit the public moneys to a maximum of $57,000 for one year.

Bills and claims against the county for the week ending April 2 in the amount of $8,330.70 were approved.

MARVIN Landman, New Holland, was re-appointed county apary inspector for one year. He will be paid $2 per hour and eight cents a mile not to exceed $400 for his tenure of office.

Upon the request of the Harrison Twp. trustees, the Commissioners approved stop signs and instructed the county engineer to purchase and erect them in Harrison Twp.

The Commissioners designated Shepard Road a through road from the intersection of Road 510 east past Road 98 thence east and south to the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road.

Stop signs will be erected on Road 98 at the intersection of Shepard Road and on Shepard Road at the intersection of the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road.

The Circleville Twp. trustees requested one stop sign. All motor vehicles entering the intersection of High St. and Island Road, coming from the south on Island Road past the A&P Store, will be asked to stop before entering the intersection.

Princess Slated To Vow to 'Obey'

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret has chosen a 298-year-old wedding vow to "obey" commoner Antony Armstrong-Jones when she marries him May in Westminster Abbey.

The dean of Westminster, Dr. Eric S. Abbott, told a news conference today part of the wedding ceremony would be taken from the Church of England's 12 prayer book. It is in that version the bride vows to obey her husband.

"They felt the language of the 12 vows is in every way deeper and richer," said Dr. Abbott.

WHY PAY $10000 MORE and get less than a Galaxie by Ford?

Last year, hundreds of thousands of people found that the Galaxie was "the buy" of a lifetime. In every detail it was the equal or master of cars costing hundreds of dollars more. The Galaxie by Ford became the best-selling car in the world. And now—for 1960—with all its advances in style, ride, room—the Galaxie is a better buy than ever!

Yes, this year more than ever, Galaxie is the Thunderbird of the low-price field.

Want Thunderbird elegance? Look at Galaxie's rich carpeting and pleated fabrics! You want Thunderbird performance? Thunderbird's own V-8 gives it to you, under Galaxie's sloping safety-vision hood.

Want a wonderful new world of ride? Feel how Galaxie's new wide tread and five-foot-long rear springs can uncurl the corners.

This 1960 Galaxie—for all its go and glamour—has all the room you'd ever want or need. More real and true room for six passengers than you can get in some high-price cars.

Honestly, does it make sense to spend more when you can travel in luxury at a low Ford price? We're waiting to prove our point with a ride and a deal to please you. We'd be delighted to see you now.

Bond Canvass Teams Readied

62 Men Volunteer To Urge Passage

More than 60 men volunteered last night to canvass Circleville School District voters on behalf of the $1,475,500 school bond issue, which is on the May 3 ballot.

The men attended an organizational meeting last night at CHS auditorium. Later they went on a tour of the three old local elementary schools — Walnut, High and Franklin.

William Sprague, chairman of the canvassing committee, gave the men brief instructions on how the canvass will work. The men will cover the school district, going from house to house answering questions regarding the bond issue.

They will present to each voter a brochure, outlining why the bond issue money is needed, what will be done with the money and urging citizens to support the bond issue.

Canvassing will begin when the brochures are available, possibly next week.

All told 62 men will take part in the canvass operation. Last night they saw the slide presentation on the bond issue, then asked questions of members of the Circleville Board of Education.

Sprague set up teams of canvassers, one team to each school district precinct.

Shrine Club Sends Kids To Circus

Pickaway County Home children and children aided by the Pickaway County Welfare Department enjoyed a special treat sponsored by the Pickaway County Shrine Club last week.

The children were taken to the famous Shrine Circus in Columbus for an afternoon of fun and merriment. A total of 52 children attended.

The Shrine Club arranged transportation, admissions and special treats for the children. It marked the second year the local group sponsored the activity.

Local Shrine Club members heading the project were Vaughn Hill, James Krinn, Bud Christopher, Wes Edstrom and Robert Hedger.

Robert Wood, president of the local Shrine Club, said his group is looking forward to a similar project next year. The Shrine Club was organized here two years ago.

Greene Champion 8th Grade Speller

David O. Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Greene, Route 2, is the champion speller among 8th grade students in Circleville.

All local 8th grade pupils participated in the contest, held Thursday. The test was both oral and written.

The spelling contest is an annual event sponsored by a Columbus newspaper. Young Greene is slated to enter the state contest in Columbus in May.

Miss Helen Hoffman and Harold Benner teach spelling in Circleville's 8th grade.

Jesus Tells...

Tue AD, No. 12: ominous meant to say it, considering the difficulties that beset Him, but the customary Passover greeting came spontaneously. "A happy holiday, Lord."

He smiled, touching her brow. "Hag sameah, Mary." He embraced her, his mother and the other women, and they withdrew through the inner portal, as the men, still standing, lifted the first cups of wine.

Jesus spoke the blessing, "Blessed art thou, Lord our God, King of the universe, who created the fruit of the vine." They drank, and sang the first hymn, "Praise ye the Lord... Tremble thou Earth, at the presence of the Lord."

Their voices rang deep and resonant, with manly hardihood and vigor. They were a bronzed sinewy crew, herdsmen, plowmen, fishers and some lettered men, heavy bearded and with dusty mantles.

They reclined about the table, and Mary moved through the curtains with the waterjug for the washing of hands, as Jesus remarked, "From now on, I shall not drink of the fruit of the vine until the Kingdom of God comes."

The tone was calm, but the meaning portentous. Later, when the men as if to break the strain began a jousting exchange about who would be accounted greatest, Jesus himself took the basin and washed their feet to their embarrassment and chastened vanity. He said let the greatest be as a servant.

It was all quite odd. Mary watched fascinated from the dim hallway.

The meal continued with intimate comradeship and congeniality, but over it brooded an ominous fatefulness. Once, Jesus' gaze fixed on Peter and He said with deep compassion that He had prayed that Peter's faith not fail.

Peter's grizzled chin jutted. "Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison and to death." Jesus shook his head, telling him that before the cock crowed this day, "Thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest Me."

A stunned hush fell over them, and beyond the door, Mary's fingers tightened on a swatch of curtain. She edged to a window, staring across the empty courtyard, hearing Jesus say that the time for needing swords had come.

The night was cool, but perspiration collected on her throat. Would there be violence here this night? She studied the dark corners of the yard fearing some ambush.

She heard Peter's heavy voice. "Lord, behold, there are two swords." A sliding of metal against sheath, and then Jesus again: "It is enough."

They were dipping greens and bread into the herbs in the fruity sauce of haroset, and Mary signaled a servant to bring the main course of roast lamb, even as further conversation shocked her.

"... One of you shall betray me." Jesus spoke with implacable certainty, and incredulous questioning arose, "Is it I? ... Is it I?" His reply was unprotesting, "He that dipeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me."

She heard something like a

Crownover Mill Bridge Plans Accepted

The Pickaway County Commissioners recently accepted plans for the improvement of a portion of Crownover Mill Road and Crownover Mill bridge over Deercreek in Monroe and Perry Twp.

The three-member board instructed County Engineer Henry T. McCrady to file the approved plans with the State Highway Department and Bureau of Public Roads for their approval.

The Second National Bank was designated as a public depository of active deposits to receive and retain on deposit the public moneys to a maximum of $57,000 for one year.

Bills and claims against the county for the week ending April 2 in the amount of $8,330.70 were approved.

MARVIN Landman, New Holland, was re-appointed county apary inspector for one year. He will be paid $2 per hour and eight cents a mile not to exceed $400 for his tenure of office.

Upon the request of the Harrison Twp. trustees, the Commissioners approved stop signs and instructed the county engineer to purchase and erect them in Harrison Twp.

The Commissioners designated Shepard Road a through road from the intersection of Road 510 east past Road 98 thence east and south to the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road.

Stop signs will be erected on Road 98 at the intersection of Shepard Road and on Shepard Road at the intersection of the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road.

The Circleville Twp. trustees requested one stop sign. All motor vehicles entering the intersection of High St. and Island Road, coming from the south on Island Road past the A&P Store, will be asked to stop before entering the intersection.

Princess Slated To Vow to 'Obey'

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret has chosen a 298-year-old wedding vow to "obey" commoner Antony Armstrong-Jones when she marries him May in Westminster Abbey.

The dean of Westminster, Dr. Eric S. Abbott, told a news conference today part of the wedding ceremony would be taken from the Church of England's 12 prayer book. It is in that version the bride vows to obey her husband.

"They felt the language of the 12 vows is in every way deeper and richer," said Dr. Abbott.

U.S. Eases Trade Rules

It took two years of large international deficits and much agitation within Congress and business circles, but the federal government has finally begun a campaign to strengthen the U. S. position in world trade. There will be no relief in the form of tightened import restrictions or protective tariffs, nor will the government institute other regulatory controls. Instead, the departments of State and Commerce are stepping up their promotion activities in foreign lands.

Salesmanship and the elimination of some unnecessary controls on American business dealings overseas will be the new tools of government trade promotion. The Eisenhower administration has adopted the hard sell by its far-flung network of emissaries in preference to reducing foreign aid or slowing the relatively free influx of competitive goods from low-wage countries.

Trade dollars comprise the majority of currencies coming into and leaving these shores, and an appreciable increase in American exports could pare down the $3 to $4 billion deficit the U. S. is incurring in its international financial dealings.

As an example of the elimination of ridiculous regulations now hampering businessmen in the promotion of American-made goods, the Commerce Department has announced it will no longer require American firms participating in overseas trade fairs to negotiate their sales programs through a government representative. Companies staging exhibits overseas will now be free to deal directly with the nationals of the host country in sales efforts.

In addition the State Department has instructed personnel in its overseas offices to keep their eyes open for possible needs for American products and wire Washington immediately upon scouting a prospect. Other moves, including the easing of regulations of the Export-Import Bank which would make it easier for foreign buyers to borrow American capital, are in process of being mapped.

There is no guarantee, of course, that these new government efforts will in any way improve the situation, but it is probable that stepped up government cooperation will increase the contacts between American offerings and foreign customers.

Nor is there danger of this type of government cooperation resulting in more government regulation of industry. The positive steps being taken are largely elimination of artificial restrictions, imposed by the U. S. government, which should not have existed in the first place.

From Diaper to Degree: $29,204

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:

To raise a child is a great reach of dollars as well as dearth. Someone has figured that to discipline a son or daughter from diaper to college degree now costs $29,204 and enough tears.

But the thump in the throat of fondness is worth it at one moment of achievement. All the gray years of denial reach a sunshine reward.

Nature note: A polar bear has the same number of teeth on each side. Put in your own finger to be sure.

Bubbles to Paris: We measure miles by habits. If you are an incessant smoker, the distance today between America and Europe is less than the puffs in one package of cigarettes. The hostesses of Air France have figured out that on a jet flight you eat one third of the distance. While drinking one glass of champagne you go 150 miles.

A bow to nicety: In 1850 the census taker asked whether you were a pauper, had idiots in your house or convicts in your family. They won't ask these questions in 1960.

For students of elections: Is it true that, beginning in 1840, every U.S. president elected in a year divisible by 20 died in office?

This is the income-measuring month when the price of patriotism is painful but must be paid from the testimony of the pocketbook. Everybody bleeds from both purse and purpose now. And I find graphic this borrowed description of the Eiffel Tower—the Empire State Building after taxes.

A signal for sure: The Catholic Digest points out that when a man says he "can take it or leave it"—he has already had it.

There is a theory that as we get more crowded as people we prefer smaller pets and we are going into the era of "the apartment-size dog." My own observation is that persons in crowded quarters often try to express their freedom by having larger pets. I know of a lady who bought a Great Dane, and it once wagged a friendly tail to say "hello" and broke her rib. She had a doctor's bill to prove her story.

Who are they calling? A check by the Hotel Edison here found that women in hotels make more phone calls than men. It also found that women are harder to wake up in the morning.

You think today's highways are unsafe? In the Circus Maximus of ancient Rome dawn-to-dusk chariot races sometimes caused 50 deaths a day. And without the loss of single pedestrian.

Catholicism Again a Factor

By George Sokolsky

The images of Al Smith and Joe McCarthy rise to plague candidates for the Presidency in the 1960 campaign. Al Smith is recalled because of the Church and State issue in the 1928 campaign; Joe McCarthy, because Richard Nixon achieved his early fame as a protagonist of anti-Communism before Joe McCarthy seized that stage.

Al Smith was a simple man of the people who emerged from lowly environs to become a distinct personality, a Governor of the State of New York and a Democratic candidate for President. He was in many respects a remarkable man, utterly independent, devotedly religious, unrelentingly patriotic.

It is difficult to say that, in 1928, Smith might have been elected President were he not a Roman Catholic. The country was going through a heightened boom; the stock market was running wild; everybody was rich. The Harding and Coolidge Administrations permitted the economy of the country to give the feeling of unbelievable prosperity whereas in fact, we were suffering from a run-away inflation. Herbert Hoover had built an enormous reputation as a man of wisdom and probity, a successful engineer, a world food administrator, the first really significant Secretary of Commerce this country had even had.

However, certain facts stand out. When it was sure that Al Smith would be the Democratic candidate, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, called a conference at Asheville, North Carolina, to organize the anti-Smith Democrats. To be elected, Governor Smith had to carry the South. Involved in this campaign was not only Smith's Catholicism but the Prohibitionist issue. Bishop Cannon was aggressively pro-Prohibition; Al Smith was anti-Prohibition. The Methodist Church had taken the lead in banning intoxicating liquor.

It was during the Al Smith campaign that the Ku Klux Klan again became politically active. The Klan was started in 1865 as a movement to rescue the South from carpetbaggers and Negroes. Originally, it included all Southerners, Jews, too, if they wished to belong. When it was revived in 1915 in Atlanta, Georgia, its program was decidedly anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic.

As early as the 1924 Democratic Convention, the Democrats faced the problem of the Klan, the greatest strength of which was in the South. The Democrats had to have the Solid South to win. The supporters of William Gibbs McAdoo for President were unwilling to have the Klan denounced and it was not denounced. The compromise candidate, John W. Davis, spoke out against the Klan.

Governor Smith did not take his failure in 1924 lying down. He got into a debate in the "Atlantic Monthly," in April 1928, with Charles Clinton Marshall, an Episcopal lawyer, on the basic question of a religious test for a President. It was this debate which enhanced Al Smith's stature for courage and intellectual acumen.

Smith was violently fought not only on the religious issue but also by the Anti-Saloon League on the Prohibition issue. The Catholic Church, carefully and deliberately, stayed out of the fight. It is also to be noted that no matter how intense this quarrel became there is no recorded notice of bloodshed.

Since 1928, this issue of a Presidential test has been dormant not dead. Various anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish organizations exist to oppose American individuals of Jewish or Catholic persuasion. On the other hand, a number of "defense" organizations have come into existence to fight back against any form of discrimination. There are also Negro defense organizations.

The McCarthy issue is being dragged into this campaign by some supporters of Richard Nixon who fear that he may be regarded as too severely anti-Communist. In addition to the McCarthy issue, some of the Democratic liberals are dragging into this campaign the Helen Gahagan Douglas campaign, when she ran for United States Senator in California and was defeated by Nixon. Liberals think that they can make something of the Nixon-Douglas campaign. In fact, a play is being shown in New York in which Helen Gahagan Douglas's husband, Melvyn Douglas, stars, which is designed to do Nixon as much harm as a play on Broadway can do.

Much of the data in this article has been checked in an extremely valuable history entitled "Church and State in the United States," by Anson Phelps Stokes, formerly Secretary of Yale University.

Once old Satch permitted Phil to advance as far as third base with nobody away, then called to him, "Stop jumping up and down on that base, boy. You ain't goin' nowhere!"

He then proceeded to fan the side on 10 pitches. After the game, Rizzuto asked Paige, "How come you needed 10 pitches?" Satch answered in all seriousness, "It was a lousy call. The Old Man never throws a bad ball at a time like that."

If You Drink, Don't Drive

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

If you serve anybody more alcoholic drinks than they can stand at your next cocktail party or home, you had better be prepared to let them spend the night there.

All of you, I'm sure, are familiar with the tried and true adage: "Don't drink and drive, for alcohol and gasoline just don't mix, and make that last one for the road a cup of coffee."

You know very well you should not drink and then drive. But let's face it, many people do it anyway. Since we have to protect the nitwits as well as those who use their heads when partying, let me pass along a formula on the drinking and driving problem. It was worked out by the Alcoholism Research Foundation, and they should know.

The average 140-pound person should wait at least two hours before driving after he has consumed two alcoholic drinks.

Now two drinks, as a rule, means two 1½-ounce shots of whiskey, gin or rum, or two 3-ounce drinks of port or sherry, or two 12-ounce bottles of beer. All have about the same alcoholic content.

For each additional drink after the second one you should allow another two hours for sobering up. If, for example, you take three drinks, you should wait four hours before driving. After four drinks, wait six hours.

This means an eight-hour wait after five drinks. If your visitors have had this many drinks, either send them home in a cab or put them up for the night.

These suggested safe waiting periods are based on a complicated formula which considers the average time required to reduce blood alcohol levels to .03 per cent.

As little as .03 per cent of alcohol

State Withholds Aid Fund From Below-Standard Area

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Board of Education has voted to withhold state funds from the largely Amish Salt Creek Twp. Local School District for 190 for failure to comply with minimum standards for elementary schools.

State-supplied funds equal approximately one-third of the district's budget, a board spokesman said.

For religious reasons, the Amish families are opposed to a change from small multi-grade, one-teacher schools. The state minimum requires an elementary school have at least three full-time teachers and not more than two grades in the same classroom.

Five of the six schools in the Salt Creek district are one-room schoolhouses with one teacher each instructing grades one through eight. The sixth school has three rooms with two teachers handling four grades each.

A report to the board said that the Amish families turned down a plan of transporting pupils among the schools that would permit each teacher to handle two grades. Only 10 per cent of the children showed up for the school bus on the first day of the plan, the report said, and that night the Amish families threatened to defeat a proposed levy at the polls the next day if the district did not go back to the original system.

Because it was clear the number of parents could defeat the levy, the report continued, the local board complied with their wishes.

A motion was offered Monday that the state board should conduct a study of the possibilities of forming new districts in the area. The motion will be considered at the May 9 meeting.

The state board turned down a request by the Lorain City Board of Education to annex three local school districts within the Lorain corporate limits.

Two years ago the city extended its corporate limits and claimed the new territory should come under the jurisdiction of its school system.

The three districts are the northern portion of the Amherst School District, eastern portion of the Vermilion School District and northern portion of the Firelands School District.

The board prohibited the annexation because the valuation for tax purposes was disproportionately high to the number of school pupils in the area. Because of four large industries in the area, the tax valuation is $18,73,501; there are 194 students in the three districts.

Among other actions Monday, the board: Declared its intent to revoke June 30, 1960, the first grade charter of Rio Grande High School, Racoon Local School District (Gallia County). The school district has 30 days to request a hearing on the matter before the board.

Revoked, as of June 30, 1960, the first grade charters of the following:

Approved a financial agreement between the Fairfield-New Waterford Local Board of Education and the Columbiana Exempted Village Board of Education (Columbiana County) transferring funds of $1,129.07 and indebtedness of $7,036.75 from Columbiana district to the Fairfield-New Waterford district, and approved a transfer of 228 acres from the Fairfield-New Waterford district to the Columbiana Village Council.

Approved 12 requests for submitting bond issues to the electorate. Among them:

Fairless District (Stark County) $1,540,000; Avon Lake District (Lorain County) $1,000,000; Rittman District (Wayne County) $2,980,000; Stanton Local District (Jefferson County) $1,597,000; Conotton Valley District (Harrison County) $337,000.

Disapproved request for $335,000 bond issue in Western Reserve Local District (Mahoning County), $335,000.

Referred to its committee on religious education a complaint by M. G. McIntosh, New Philadelphia, that religious education is being taught in New Philadelphia schools.

Referred to a special subcommittee a proposal by the Highland County Board of Education that four Highland County school districts participate in a plan whereby high schools in those districts would offer certain subjects and pupils would take on subject at a time, and the school year would be divided into fifths instead of semesters. State Supt. E. E. Holt said that to consider such a problem, the school districts—Sinking Spring—first would have to consolidate.

Referred to its legislative committee for study a resolution from the Willoughby-Eastlake Board of Education to introduce into the next General Assembly legislation that would make school districts exempt from the state gasoline tax.

Accepted the resignation of W. G. Scarberry, superintendent of the Ohio State School for the Blind, and appointed as his replacement Donald W. Overbey, Vinton, Iowa, at an annual salary of $10,000.

Adopted a resolution congratulating the following high schools for recently being accredited by the North Central Assn. of Colleges: College Corner (Preble County), Lutheran East (Cleveland Heights) Garfield (Hamilton City), Taft (Hamilton City), Buckeye (Medina County), Newbury (Geauga County), Nazareth Academy (Parma Heights), Waynesfield-Goshen (Auglaize County, and South (Willoughby).

Around & About

Hi Folks:

We hope that everything has been good for you since our last visit.

Say; this ground has been wetter than two swamps deep. By jingo's the oats sowing is going to be a little late; but if you need some real good oats seed, we have them in all price ranges. If you are going to build fence; we don't have a boatload, but we do have a carload. We just received a load of steel posts; we are sure we can supply all your fencing needs.

Need a few extra nickels in your Jeans? We can help you put them there, if we have the chance to put your livestock on the Purina program that is best suited for the type of livestock that you have.

Say; there is really going to be a fast race horse from our county one of these days. Art Mace is the proud owner. The mare died when the colt was but forty-five days old, so Art raised it on Purina Nursing Chow and Calf Starters. The sire of the colt is the one and only Steamfin' Demon owned by Geo. Van Camp. That colt is bound to be a winner!

The price of corn is moving up, so you folks that have corn stored whether it be under support price or not; better get your head and your pencil together and figure a dab or two. If you do have grain for sale; we would sure appreciate a chance to buy whatever amount you may have. We are always in the market for grain of all kind. In the morning wouldn't some of those good Purina fed eggs with a piece of ham or bacon really taste good for breakfast?

If you do not know where to buy Purina fed eggs; call us, we will tell you of the local producers.

If you need good feed, processed with the finest equipment in South Central Ohio, plus good service, then you should be a feeding partner of ours. We are ready and waiting to serve you in any way we can. Why not give us a call?

Shucks; we don't know your problems if you don't tell us. Be seeing you.

Thank You

U.S. Eases Trade Rules

It took two years of large international deficits and much agitation within Congress and business circles, but the federal government has finally begun a campaign to strengthen the U. S. position in world trade. There will be no relief in the form of tightened import restrictions or protective tariffs, nor will the government institute other regulatory controls. Instead, the departments of State and Commerce are stepping up their promotion activities in foreign lands.

Salesmanship and the elimination of some unnecessary controls on American business dealings overseas will be the new tools of government trade promotion. The Eisenhower administration has adopted the hard sell by its far-flung network of emissaries in preference to reducing foreign aid or slowing the relatively free influx of competitive goods from low-wage countries.

Trade dollars comprise the majority of currencies coming into and leaving these shores, and an appreciable increase in American exports could pare down the $3 to $4 billion deficit the U. S. is incurring in its international financial dealings.

As an example of the elimination of ridiculous regulations now hampering businessmen in the promotion of American-made goods, the Commerce Department has announced it will no longer require American firms participating in overseas trade fairs to negotiate their sales programs through a government representative.

Companies staging exhibits overseas will now be free to deal directly with the nationals of the host country in sales efforts.

In addition the State Department has instructed personnel in its overseas offices to keep their eyes open for possible needs for American products and wire Washington immediately upon scouting a prospect. Other moves, including the easing of regulations of the Export-Import Bank which would make it easier for foreign buyers to borrow American capital, are in process of being mapped.

There is no guarantee, of course, that these new government efforts will in any way improve the situation, but it is probable that stepped up government cooperation will increase the contacts between American offerings and foreign customers.

Nor is there danger of this type of government cooperation resulting in more government regulation of industry. The positive steps being taken are largely elimination of artificial restrictions, imposed by the U. S. government, which should not have existed in the first place.

From Diaper to Degree: $29,204

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:

To raise a child is a great reach of dollars as well as dearthness. Someone has figured that to discipline a son or daughter from diaper to college degree now costs $29,204 and enough tears.

But the thump in the throat of fondness is worth it at one moment of achievement. All the gray years of denial reach a sunshine reward.

Nature note: A polar bear has the same number of teeth on each side. Put in your own finger to be sure.

Bubbles to Paris. We measure miles by habits. If you are an incessant smoker, the distance to-day between America and Europe is less than the puffs in one package of cigarettes. The hostesses of Air France have figured out that on a jet flight you eat one third of the distance. While drinking one glass of champagne you go 150 miles.

A bow to nicety: In 1850 the census taker asked whether you were a pauper, bad idiot in your house or convicts in your family. They won't ask these questions in 1960.

For students of elections: Is it true that, beginning in 1840, every U.S. president elected in a year divisible by 20 died in office?

This is the income-measuring month when the price of patriotism is painful but must be paid from the testimony of the pocketbook. Everybody bleeds from both purse and purpose now. And I find graphic this borrowed description of the Eiffel Tower—the Empire State Building after taxes.

A signal for sure: The Catholic Digest points out that when a man says he "can take it or leave it"—he has already had it.

There is a theory that as we get more crowded as people we prefer smaller pets and we are going into the era of "the apartment-size dog." My own observation is that persons in crowded quarters often try to express their freedom by having larger pets. I know of a lady who bought a Great Dane, and it once wagged a friendly tail to say "hello" and broke her rib. She had a doctor's bill to prove her story.

Who are they calling? A check by the Hotel Edison here found that women in hotels make more phone calls than men. It also found that women are harder to wake up in the morning.

You think today's highways are unsafe? In the Circus Maximus of ancient Rome dawn-to-dusk chariot races sometimes caused 50 deaths a day. And without the loss of single pedestrian.

Catholicism Again a Factor

The images of Al Smith and Joe McCarthy rise to plague candidates for the Presidency in the 1960 campaign. Al Smith is recalled because of the Church and State issue in the 1928 campaign; Joe McCarthy, because Richard Nixon achieved his early fame as a protagonist of anti-Communism before Joe McCarthy seized that stage.

Al Smith was a simple man of the people who emerged from lowly environs to become a distinct personality, a Governor of the State of New York and a Democratic candidate for President. He was in many respects a remarkable man, utterly independent, devotedly religious, unrelentingly patriotic.

It is difficult to say that, in 1928, Smith might have been elected President were he not a Roman Catholic. The country was going through a heightened boom; the stock market was running wild; everybody was rich. The Harding and Coolidge Administrations permitted the economy of the country to give the feeling of unbelievable prosperity whereas in fact, we were suffering from a run-away inflation. Herbert Hoover had built an enormous reputation as a man of wisdom and probity, a successful engineer, a world food-administrator, the first really significant Secretary of Commerce this country had even had.

However, certain facts stand out. When it was sure that Al Smith would be the Democratic candidate, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, called a conference at Asheville, North Carolina, to organize the anti-Smith Democrats. To be elected, Governor Smith had to carry the South. Involved in this campaign was not only Smith's Catholicism but the Prohibitionist issue. Bishop Cannon was aggressively pro-Prohibition; Al Smith was anti-Prohibition. The Methodist Church had taken the lead in banning intoxicating liquor.

It was during the Al Smith campaign that the Ku Klux Klan again became politically active. The Klan was started in 1865 as a movement to rescue the South from carpetbaggers and Negroes. Originally, it included all Southerners, Jews, too, if they wished to belong. When it was revived in 1921 in Atlanta, Georgia, its program was decidedly anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic.

As early as the 1924 Democratic Convention, the Democrats faced the problem of the Klan, the greatest strength of which was in the South. The Democrats had to have the Solid South to win. The supporters of William Gibbs McAdoo for President were unwilling to have the Klan denounced and it was not denounced. The compromise candidate, John W. Davis, spoke out against the Klan.

Governor Smith did not take his failure in 1924 lying down. He got into a debate in the "Atlantic Monthly," in April 1928, with Charles Clinton Marshall, an Episcopalian lawyer, on the basic question of a religious test for a President. It was this debate which enhanced Al Smith's stature for courage and intellectual acumen.

Smith was violently fought not only on the religious issue but also by the Anti-Saloon League on the Prohibition issue. The Catholic Church, carefully and deliberately, stayed out of the fight. It is also to be noted that no matter how intense this quarrel became there is no recorded notice of bloodshed.

Since 1928, this issue of a Presidential test has been dormant not dead. Various anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish organizations exist to oppose American individuals of Jewish or Catholic persuasion. On the other hand, a number of "defense" organizations have come into existence to fight back against any form of discrimination. There are also Negro defense organizations.

The McCarthy issue is being dragged into this campaign by some supporters of Richard Nixon who fear that he may be regarded as too severely anti-Communist. In addition to the McCarthy issue, some of the Democratic liberals are dragging into this campaign the Helen Gahagan Douglas campaign, when she ran for United States Senator in California and was defeated by Nixon. Liberals think that they can make something of the Nixon-Douglas campaign. In fact, a play is being shown in New York in which Helen Gahagan Douglas's husband, Melvyn Douglas, stars, which is designed to do Nixon as much harm as a play on Broadway can do.

Much of the data in this article has been checked in an extremely valuable history entitled "Church and State in the United States," by Anson Phelps Stokes, formerly Secretary of Yale University.

Once old Satch permitted Phil to advance as far as third base with nobody away, then called to him, "Stop jumping up and down on that base, boy. You ain't goin' nowhere!" He then proceeded to fan the side on 10 pitches.

After the game, Rizzuto asked Paige, "How come you needed 10 pitches?" Satch answered in all seriousness, "It was a lousy call. The Old Man never throws a bad ball at a time like that."

If You Drink, Don't Drive

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

If you serve anybody more alcoholic drinks than they can stand at your next cocktail party or home, you had better be prepared to let them spend the night there.

All of you, I'm sure, are familiar with the tried and true adage:

"Don't drink and drive, for alcohol and gasoline just don't mix, and make that last one for the road a cup of coffee."

You know very well you should not drink and then drive. But let's face it, many people do it anyway.

Since we have to protect the nitwits as well as those who use their heads when partying, let me pass along a formula on the drinking and driving problem. It was worked out by the Alcoholism Research Foundation, and they should know.

The average 140-pound person should wait at least two hours before driving after he has consumed two alcoholic drinks.

Now two drinks, as a rule, means two 1½-ounce shots of whiskey, gin or rum, or two 3-ounce drinks of port or sherry, or two 12-ounce bottles of beer. All have about the same alcoholic content.

For each additional drink after the second one you should allow another two hours for sobering up. If, for example, you take three drinks, you should wait four hours before driving. After four drinks, wait six hours.

This means an eight-hour wait after five drinks. If your visitors have had this many drinks, either send them home in a cab or put them up for the night.

These suggested safe waiting periods are based on a complicated formula which considers the average time required to reduce blood alcohol levels to .03 per cent.

As little as .03 per cent of alcohol

State Withholds Aid Fund From Below-Standard Area

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Board of Education has voted to withhold state funds from the largely Amish Salt Creek Twp. Local School District for 190 for failure to comply with minimum standards for elementary schools.

State-supplied funds equal approximately one-third of the district's budget, a board spokesman said.

For religious reasons, the Amish families are opposed to a change from small multi-grade, one-teacher schools. The state minimum requires an elementary school have at least three full-time teachers and not more than two grades in the same classroom.

Five of the six schools in the Salt Creek district are one-room schoolhouses with one teacher each instructing grades one through eight. The sixth school has three rooms with two teachers handling four grades each.

A report to the board said that the Amish families turned down a plan of transporting pupils among the schools that would permit each teacher to handle two grades. Only 10 per cent of the children showed up for the school bus on the first day of the plan, the report said, and that night the Amish families threatened to defeat a proposed levy at the polls the next day if the district did not go back to the original system.

Because it was clear the number of parents could defeat the levy, the report continued, the local board complied with their wishes.

A motion was offered Monday that the state board should conduct a study of the possibilities of forming new districts in the area. The motion will be considered at the May 9 meeting.

The state board turned down a request by the Lorain City Board of Education to annex three local school districts within the Lorain corporate limits.

Two years ago the city extended its corporate limits and claimed the new territory should come under the jurisdiction of its school system.

The three districts are the northern portion of the Amherst School District, eastern portion of the Vermilion School District and northern portion of the Firelands School District.

The board prohibited the annexation because the valuation for tax purposes was disproportionately high to the number of school pupils in the area. Because of four large industries in the area, the tax valuation is $18,735,001; there are 194 students in the three districts.

Among other actions Monday, the board:

Declared its intent to revoke June 30, 1960, the first grade charter of Rio Grande High School, Racoon Local School District (Gallia County). The school district has 30 days to request a hearing on the matter before the board.

Revoked, as of June 30, 1960, the first grade charters of the following high schools: Harrison Shawnee, Junction City - Jackson, New Straitsville (all in Perry County); and Leesburg-Magnetic (Union County).

Approved a financial agreement between the Fairfield-New Waterford Local Board of Education and the Columbiana Exempted Village Board of Education (Columbiana County) transferring funds of $1,129.07 and indebtedness of $7,036.75 from Columbiana district to the Fairfield-New Waterford district, and approved a transfer of 228 acres from the Fairfield-New Waterford district to the Columbiana Village Council.

Approved 12 requests for submitting bond issues to the electorate. Among them:

Fairless District (Stark County) $1,540,000; Avon Lake District (Lorain County) $1,000,000; Rittman District (Wayne County) $2,980,000; Stanton Local District (Jefferson County) $1,597,000; Connoton Valley District (Harrison County) $337,000.

Disapproved request for $335,000 bond issue in Western Reserve Local District (Mahoning County), $335,000.

Referred to its committee on religious education a complaint by M. C. McIntosh, New Philadelphia, that religious education is being taught in New Philadelphia schools.

Referred to a special subcommittee a proposal by the Highland County Board of Education that four Highland County school districts participate in a plan whereby high schools in those districts would offer certain subjects and pupils would take on subject at a time, and the school year would be divided into fifths instead of semesters. State Supt. E. E. Holt said that to consider such a problem, the school districts—Sinking Spring—first would have to consolidate.

Referred to its legislative committee for study a resolution from the Willoughby-Eastlake Board of Education to introduce into the next General Assembly legislation that would make school districts exempt from the state gasoline tax.

Accepted the resignation of W. G. Scarberry, superintendent of the Ohio State School for the Blind, and appointed as his replacement Donald W. Overbey, Vinton, Iowa, at an annual salary of $10,000.

Adopted a resolution congratulating the following high schools for recently being accredited by the North Central Assn. of Colleges: College Corner (Peebles County); Lutheran East (Cleveland Heights) Garfield (Hamilton City); Taft (Hamilton City); Buckeye (Medina County); Newbury (Geauga County); Nazareth Academy (Parma Heights); Waynesfield-Goshen (Auglaize County, and South (Willoughby).

Fatness Coming After Age 20

Science Finds Lean Tissues Replaced

CHICAGO (AP) — It's not only the embarrassing bulges that make you fat. If you're still trim—but never will see 20 again—the odds are strong you're a lot fatter than you used to be.

The sad fact is you can be underweight and overfat at the same time.

A scientist from Cornell University's Graduate School of Nutrition described advanced studies on body weight today to the American Institute of Nutrition.

A scientific team working under Dr. J. M. Fryer found that if a young man reaches an "ideal weight" at age 20 and never puts on another ounce, he will at least double his body fat content by age 60—at the expense of lost muscle and other lean tissues.

Where does the excess fat go? Dr. Fryer suspects it is deposited internally as well as under the skin.

The study involved 60 men of age 60 and over and in good general health. It stemmed from the casual observation of the body composition of a 63-year-old man who had been ill.

The man had lost 25 pounds, presented a wasted appearance, and was about 20 pounds under what had been regarded as the ideal weight for his age.

A series of tests disclosed, however, that he still had almost twice as much fat in his body as a well-nourished young man of ideal weight for the same height.

Dr. Fryer said the study showed that a reduction in body specific gravity—more fat in proportion to lean tissue—"is apparently almost inevitable with increased age."

Algerian Rebels

Ask Mercenaries

Join Their Army

TUNIS (AP)—The leadership of the Algerian rebellion announced today volunteers will be accepted from any country to join in the fight for independence from France.

This opened the way for any volunteers who might answer the call issued at a meeting of African representatives here last month. A recruiting office opened in Cairo, but no recruits are known to have arrived in Algeria. It also could open the way for Communist volunteers, although this was not mentioned in the announcement.

High ranking rebel leaders began visiting Peiping last year and the Chinese Communists have hinted that volunteers are available.

The rebels say they have about 100,000 men in Algeria fighting a French army of 500,000. French estimates of the rebel army run to 30,000 men.

Cubans Grow Disillusioned

One-Time Castro Comrades Now Jeer at New Chieftain

Editor's note—In Havana things look calm. The tourist bent on fun can enjoy himself. But under the surface, Havana and Cuba are churning. The Castro revolution is at a crisis. CIEGO DE AVILA, Cuba (AP) — "Fidel doesn't know. It can't be known what is going on in Cuba. When Fidel knows, he will change things."

So speaks a little man who has been hurt, one who still clings to faith and hope in the Cuban revolution.

But more and more in educated circles, those who had such faith are being disillusioned.

In the home of a man who once fought with Fidel Castro against the Fulgencio Batista dictatorship, I watched former 2nd of July movement revolutionaries jeer bitterly as their onetime hero and idol shouted and gesticulated before television cameras. In the home of a middle class businessman, I heard curses for Fidel muttered by one who once funneled supplies to mountain hideouts of the embattled Fidelists.

In a little provincial hotel of a tense, worried town, a charwoman spat upon a Fidelista newspaper and hurled it to the floor.

On a city street corner I had a brief rendezvous with a man who once was a 2nd officer. The meeting lasted only until two over-casual characters sauntered toward us. "Informers," whispered the former revolutionary, leaving quickly.

In another Cuban home, my talk with the family was interrupted while one of the group walked around the house, checking to see if anyone was listening outside the blinds covering the open windows.

In one town, I arranged a meeting with a group of business leaders, Cuban and American. The meeting failed to come off. Only one man was at the appointed place. "It's canceled," he whispered. "We're afraid."

President Eisenhower was talking of this atmosphere last week when he said it is dangerous in Cuba "to voice opinions which do not conform with government policy."

The man who cuts sugar cane and the mill worker still believe in the revolution. So does the white collar worker in the mill or factory office. They make up Castro's mass support. But many have vague fears — they believe Havana's constant anti-U.S. propaganda.

A peasant despite Havana's bold word about fighting house to house if need be does not relish the prospect.

"In Guantanamo Bay there are ships with 10,000 Marines waiting to come in and kill us," he says, echoing a propaganda line. Actually there is barely a platoon of Marines at the naval base the United States leased from Cuba under treaty.

The Cuban businessman is afraid. How long can he support his family when laws, regulations and arbitrary seizures are crowding him to the wall?

Even moderate elements are afraid. Some sense bloodshed in the offing. They have been told: "There is no neutrality — either you are all for us or all against us."

Hundreds in tense Camaguey province have been grabbed in roundups. Jails are being filled with those who spoke or acted out of turn. American consular authorities are kept busy aiding Americans jailed on the flimsiest of excuses.

An American woman tells of being accosted by a Communist on the street, who shouted at her: "You — — — Yanqui!"

Said another American woman: "I'm scared to death most of the time. I wake up at night perspiring. Life for an American woman in this area is just plain hell!" She told of receiving threatening notes one night while her rancher husband was away, and of sitting up all night with a shotgun in her lap.

It would not take much to set off violent anti-American actions by mobs who could claim the streets any time in the name of revolutionary patriotism. There is no heavy exodus now, but when the school term ends in the summer, many are reported ready to send their women and children to the United States. There are 8,000 Americans in Cuba.

Nobody defends the United States aloud.

That's the watchword: "Careful, Cubano! Somebody is listening."

U.S. Policy of Picking Envoys Because of Wealth Is Rapped

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Many of America's representatives abroad go to their posts ill-prepared for the jobs ahead, says Marguerite Cullman, who had a concentrated course in diplomacy during the service of her husband, Howard Cullman as commissioner general of the Brussels World's Fair.

"The chief requirement of a United States ambassador is to have enough money to foot the bills which go along with the job," says this sprightly and charming New Yorker, who has chronicled her Brussels experiences in her new book, "Ninety Dozen Glasses." "The result is we're sending in the class treasurer instead of the first team."

500 Toledoans Return to Jobs

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A three-day work stoppage at Toledo Scale Corp. ended Monday when 500 production workers returned to their jobs.

The employees left work Friday after five workers in the heat treat department were laid off. The five, who said they were ill and walked off their jobs, were laid off pending an investigation, said Richard Herron, the company's director of industrial relations.

Herman Sperr, president of United Automobile Workers Local 773, said the mass walkout was unauthorized.

Louis Armstrong Slated in WCH

WASHINGTON C. H. — Louis Armstrong, labeled by many as the greatest American jazz musician, will make a rare appearance in South Central Ohio when he brings his Concert All-Stars to Washington High School on May 18.

Sponsored by the Fayette County Softball Assn., the two-hour show will start at 8:30 p. m. and feature many of the melodies "Satchmo" has made famous with his gravel voice and velvet trumpet. Reserved seats are on sale at 256 E. Court St. here from 2 to 7:30 p. m. six days a week.

With Alaska and Hawaii in the union, the geographic center of population had a westward shift. It was last placed in South Dakota, at a point 17 miles west of Castle Rock in Butte County. This point is 14 miles east of the junction of the borders of South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming.

Fatness Coming After Age 20

Science Finds Lean Tissues Replaced

CHICAGO (AP) — It's not only the embarrassing bulges that make you fat. If you're still trim — but never will see 20 again — the odds are strong you're a lot fatter than you used to be.

The sad fact is you can be underweight and overfat at the same time.

A scientist from Cornell University's Graduate School of Nutrition described advanced studies on body weight today to the American Institute of Nutrition.

A scientific team working under Dr. J. M. Fryer found that if a young man reaches an "ideal weight" at age 20 and never puts on another ounce, he will at least double his body fat content by age 60—at the expense of lost muscle and other lean tissues.

Where does the excess fat go? Dr. Fryer suspects it is deposited internally as well as under the skin.

The study involved 60 men of age 60 and over and in good general health. It stemmed from the casual observation of the body composition of a 63-year-old man who had been ill.

The man had lost 25 pounds, presented a wasted appearance, and was about 20 pounds under what had been regarded as the ideal weight for his age.

A series of tests disclosed, however, that he still had almost twice as much fat in his body as a well-nourished young man of ideal weight for the same height.

Dr. Fryer said the study showed that a reduction in body specific gravity—more fat in proportion to lean tissue—"is apparently almost inevitable with increased age."

Algerian Rebels Ask Mercenaries Join Their Army

TUNIS (AP)—The leadership of the Algerian rebellion announced today volunteers will be accepted from any country to join in the fight for independence from France.

This opened the way for any volunteers who might answer the call issued at a meeting of African representatives here last month. A recruiting office opened in Cairo, but no recruits are known to have arrived in Algeria. It also could open the way for Communist volunteers, although this was not mentioned in the announcement.

High ranking rebel leaders began visiting Peiping last year and the Chinese Communists have hinted that volunteers are available.

The rebels say they have about 100,000 men in Algeria fighting a French army of 500,000. French estimates of the rebel army run to 30,000 men.

Ohio's May Draft Call Faces 751

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Selective Service System today called for the induction of 751 Ohioans into the armed services in May. It is the highest call so far this year. The April call was for 58.

The youngest registrant who may be inducted in May must be 22 years old by May 1. The call by counties:

Pickaway 1, Madison 3, Ross 3.

17-Year-Old's Death Sentence Is Upheld

CINCINNATI (AP)—The death sentence and murder conviction of 17-year-old Huston Nelson has been affirmed by the First District State Court of Appeals. The court acted Monday on the appeal of the teen-ager, convicted in the holdup-slaying of Mrs. Bernice Wilson, 61, in her drug store.

Cubans Grow Disillusioned

One-Time Castro Comrades Now Jeer at New Chieftain

Editor's note—In Havana things things look calm. The tourist bent on fun can enjoy himself. But under the surface, Havana and Cuba are churning. The Castro revolution is at a crisis. To find out the situation today, William L. Ryan went into the provinces and interviewed scores of Cubans. This is the first of four articles.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

CIEGO DE AVILA, Cuba (AP) — "Fidel doesn't know. It can't be he knows what is going on in Cuba. When Fidel knows, he will change things."

So speaks a little man who has been hurt, one who still clings to faith and hope in the Cuban revolution.

But more and more in educated circles, those who had such faith are being disillusioned.

In the home of a man who once fought with Fidel Castro against the Fulgencio Batista dictatorship, I watched former 2th of July movement revolutionaries jeer bitterly as their onetime hero and idol shouted and gesticulated

Police Checking Mysterious Calls

Circleville Police are checking reports that several local women are getting mysterious phone calls.

Officers said a person or persons apparently dial numbers, then refuse to talk when the party on the other end of the line answers. One local woman reported she received such calls twice Sunday and again yesterday.

In the home of a middle class businessman, I heard curses for Fidel muttered by one who once funneled supplies to mountain hideouts of the embattled Fidelistas.

Ladies Aid Plans New York Trip April 19

A New York trip by bus April 19 was discussed by members of the Scioto Chapel Ladies Aid Thursday afternoon at the Robtown Parish House.

The meeting opened with the group singing "He Lives! He Lives!" with Mrs. Elzie Brooks in charge.

Mrs. Cecil Ward led devotions and read an article entitled "It Is Always Easter" and a poem "Father Forgive". Devotions closed with the group praying the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The Rev. and Mrs. John Morgan, new minister and his wife, were welcomed into the society and members were introduced individually.

It was announced that the co-chairmen for the ham and chicken supper to be held in June are Mrs. Raymond Hott, kitchen committee; Mrs. Howard Koch, Mrs. Charles Huston and Mrs. Carroll Reid, dining room committee.

Birthday donations were received from Mrs. Paul Kempton, Mrs. Ben Walker and Miss Effie Walker. A new member, Mrs. Robert Drummond, was welcomed into the group.

The Rev. Morgan announced the Communion Service will be held Good Friday evening.

Mrs. Brooks appointed Mrs. Cecil Ward, Mrs. Lawrence Ward, Mrs. Glen Fausnaugh to serve on the nominating committee. Election of officers will be held at the May meeting.

Mrs. Milton Renick opened the program with a reading "Miracles of Spring." Mrs. Raymond Hott read "Awaitin' on the Lord". A contest was conducted with Mrs. Ben Walker as the winner. Mrs. Morgan was presented the door prize.

It was announced that there would be no regular May meeting. A Mothers Day Dinner will be held May 6 with a short business meeting and election of officers.

At the close of the program a luncheon was served to 27 members and guests by Mrs. Milton Renick, Mrs. Coit Wilson, Mrs. Earl Hott and Mrs. Raymond Hott.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Strawser, Hayward Ave., and Mrs. A. H. Morris, 367 Watt St., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smiley, Derby.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Styers Sr., 623 E. Mound St., spent Saturday in Columbus as dinner guests of their granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Whittaker. They visited Mrs. Lawrence McCabe, Columbus in the afternoon.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Try Good Behavior, Youngster

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior in high school and I came home with a bad report card last month. My parents cut off all my enjoyments. No sorority Tuesday night. No basketball games Saturday nights. They make me stay home and study all the time.

And they won't let me go out until my next good report card. The next card doesn't come out for two months. Abby, I can't keep my mind on my studies when I think of all the fun I'm missing. What should I do?

"A PRISONER"
DEAR "PRISONER": I suggest you buckle down and study. If you let your mind wander to all the fun you are missing you'll get a bad report card again and you'll be "a prisoner" serving an extended term.

June, but when he was here for Christmas he hinted that I had lost him to another girl. But how can you feel anything but love for a guy who takes you in his arms and quietly and gently tells you how sweet you are and how much he cares for you, but how it would be much better for everyone if he married another girl?

HOPING AGAINST HOPE
DEAR HOPING: Don't get carried away with his gentle presentation. He is giving you the air, my dear. Stay out of his arms so the windows of your common sense won't get fogged up.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GETS AROUND": Next time you "get around" a hotel room look in the drawers. You'll find a Bible there. I suggest you read it.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Panel Discussion Heads Beta Rho Society Meeting

A panel discussion entitled "The Progress and Experiences of Teachers" headed the Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society Tuesday evening.

The session was held in the home of Mrs. John Dowler, Ashville, with 15 members and a guest present.

Miss Winifred Harper was moderator during the discussion. The panel consisted of Margaret Magill, first year teacher; Margaret Evans, 10 years; Lucille Scott, 35 years; and Grace Dresbach, retired teacher.

Due to illness Mrs. Dresbach had written her report which was read by Gloria Gabriel.

The review of the panel reminded members that advances, techniques, inventions and modernizations have made the educational program more teachable and meaningful to growing children.

Circle 4 Plans Thursday Session

Circle No. 4 of the First Methodist WSCS will hold its meeting at 1:30 p. m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Raymond Rader, Route 3.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dowler assisted by Anna Towler, Patricia Ogle, Garnet Ridgway and Virginia Nothstine.

A luncheon is slated in May in honor of the Delta Kappa Gamma "founders" and the prospective Pickaway County senior girls who are planning a teaching career.

Practical Nurses To Meet Friday

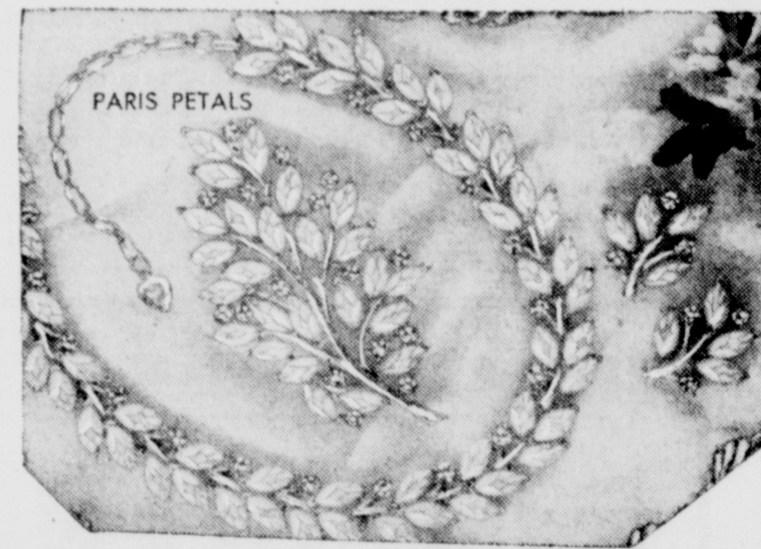

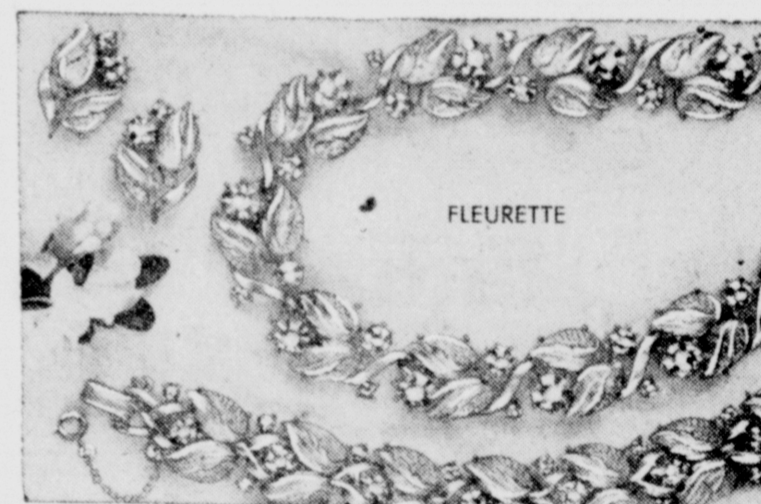

Practical Nurses Association will hold its meeting at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the home of Mrs. Millie Siggatt, 121 Highland Ave.

Ruling Given by State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There is no provision in law authorizing a board of county commissioners to adopt regulations controlling sanitary construction for one, two or three-family dwellings in unincorporated areas, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy has ruled. In a formal opinion to Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, McElroy also said the board does not have the authority to issue permits, collect fees nor make any inspections.

A report on Legislation Day Conference for District VII of the Ohio Federation held March 24 at Newark was given by Mrs. Maynard Slack.

Elected as alternate delegates to represent the club at the Ohio Federation Convention were Mrs. Sterling Poling and Mrs. Robert Christy. The convention will be held April 27 and 28 at the Statler Hotel, Cleveland.

Welcomed as guests to the meeting were Mrs. Carroll White, Mrs. John Adler, Mrs. Robert Litter and Mrs. Joe Brooks.

The May meeting of the Circleville Junior Women's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Weaver, Route 3. Guests will be the Junior Women's Club, Ohio Federation District VII President and District VII Junior Director.

In celebration of the organization of the General Federation of Women's Club March 27 a birthday cake was served by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Jerald Harrell and Mrs. Frank Wirth. The parent organization was formed 70 years ago March 27, 1890.

Miss Thibault, betrothed to John C. Hedges, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Thibault, Columbus.

The bride-elect is a graduate of St. Joseph Academy and is employed as a secretary for Continental Office Supply, Columbus.

Mr. Hedges is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Hedges, Ashville. He is a graduate of Walnut Twp. High School and served two years with the U. S. Army. He is employed by the E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co.

The wedding will be an event of May 28 at the Holy Cross Church, Columbus.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Circleville.

At the close of the program a luncheon was served to 27 members and guests by Mrs. Milton Renick, Mrs. Coit Wilson, Mrs. Earl Hott and Mrs. Raymond Hott.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Try Good Behavior, Youngster

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior in high school and I came home with a bad report card last month. My parents cut off all my enjoyments. No sorority Tuesday night. No basketball games Saturday nights. They make me stay home and study all the time.

And they won't let me go out until my next good report card. The next card doesn't come out for two months. Abby, I can't keep my mind on my studies when I think of all the fun I'm missing. What should I do?

"A PRISONER"
DEAR "PRISONER": I suggest you buckle down and study. If you let your mind wander to all the fun you are missing you'll get a bad report card again and you'll be "a prisoner" serving an extended term.

DEAR ABBY: Don't be too hard on the Korean girls of easy virtue. The Korean girls are hungry, affectionate and pathetically poor. They are lucky if they eat four times a week. Is it any wonder they are willing to be a slave to an American soldier for a good meal?

Yes, there are many Korean babies born to these girls and American soldiers. But the babies can't help it if their fathers go off and forget about them. Those half-Korean babies are the sweetest most adorable babies in the world. We ought to know—we adopted one.

MR. AND MRS. R.D.R.
DEAR ABBY: For a year I went with a boy, 19, who was gentle in both words and action. He would do anything to keep from hurting anyone. He is good-looking (6 feet tall) and has won his share of letters in sports. He neither smokes nor drinks and is an elder in the church. He is going to college and is doing well there.

He won't be home again until

June, but when he was here for Christmas he hinted that I had lost him to another girl. But how can you feel anything but love for a guy who takes you in his arms and quietly and gently tells you how sweet you are and how much he cares for you, but how it would be much better for everyone if he married another girl?

HOPING AGAINST HOPE
DEAR HOPING: Don't get carried away with his gentle presentation. He is giving you the air, my dear. Stay out of his arms so the windows of your common sense won't get fogged up.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GETS AROUND"
Next time you "get around" a hotel room look in the drawers. You'll find a Bible there. I suggest you read it.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Panel Discussion Heads Beta Rho Society Meeting

A panel discussion entitled "The Progress and Experiences of Teachers" headed the Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society Tuesday evening.

The session was held in the home of Mrs. John Dowler, Ashville, with 15 members and a guest present.

Miss Winifred Harper was moderator during the discussion. The panel consisted of Margaret Magill, first year teacher; Margaret Evans, 10 years; Lucille Scott, 35 years; and Grace Dresbach, retired teacher.

Due to illness Mrs. Dresbach had written her report which was read by Gloria Gabriel.

The review of the panel reminded members that advances, techniques, inventions and modernizations have made the educational program more teachable and meaningful to growing children.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dowler assisted by Anna Towler, Patricia Ogle, Garnet Ridgway and Virginia Nothstine.

A luncheon is slated in May in honor of the Delta Kappa Gamma "founders" and the prospective Pickaway County senior girls who are planning a teaching career.

Practical Nurses To Meet Friday

Ruling Given by State
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There is no provision in law authorizing a board of county commissioners to adopt regulations controlling sanitary construction for one, two or three-family dwellings in unincorporated areas, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy has ruled. In a formal opinion to Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, McElroy also said the board does not have the authority to issue permits, collect fees nor make any inspections.

Ashville Raps Cedarville in 20-3 Slugfest

Williamsport came from behind an 8-7 deficit in the bottom of the fifth inning to tally five runs and down invading Atlanta in its opener, 14-9.

The Red Raiders started the scoring with a three-run outburst in the second inning, but the Deers rallied for five in the bottom of the same stanza to take the lead.

Atlanta went ahead, 7-5, in the top of the fourth and Deercreek tied the ball game with two in the bottom of the fourth. After the fifth inning rally, the Deers led the contest with two runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Thw elm went to David Myers who fanned four and walked four. Delbert Bush absorbed the loss. In his stint, Bush walked three and whiffed two.

PAUL ANDERSON started for Williamsport. During his tenure he walked eight and struck out a like number. Ronnie Morris opened the mound chores for Atlanta, walking six and fanning four.

Myers and Yates had the only extra base hits of the game — a double each. Williamsport enters Pickaway today.

Tribe Near Peak of Form In Training

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —With three victories in a row and 30 hits in their last two games, the Cleveland Indians were near training-season peak today for their first spring exhibition game with the New York Yankees since 1951.

As a team the Indians are averaging above .300 in batting. But hitting wasn't regarded as their problem this spring. The big question was pitching.

Monday at Lakeland Cleveland pitching looked good as the Indians won 5-3 over Detroit in 11 innings. The outcome was decided by Rocky Colavito's double off Sisler. The two-bagger was sandwiched between singles by Tiro Francona and Woodie Held in a two-run rally.

Jim Perry hurled the first six innings for Cleveland and gave his best performance of the spring, yielding one run on four hits. Jim Grant allowed the other two Tiger runs in the ninth when Chico Fernandez tripled after a pair of singles. Carl Thomas retired six batters in the two extra innings.

Wynn Hawkins was the Cleveland pitching choice for today against the Yanks' Bob Turley. Herb Score probably will get another trial later this week. Score worked four innings Saturday and said his sore shoulder is much better.

Jacksonville and Knoxville set a South Atlantic League record in 1959 by playing a 21-inning game. Jacksonville won, 3-2.

As Usual, Redleg Fans Hold High Hopes for Another Flag

CINCINNATI (AP) — A hardy perennial—Cincinnati hope for a National League pennant—burst into bud today as the Reds open the 1960 season against the Philadelphia Phillies.

It has been 20 long years since those budding hopes have developed into the bloom of a pennant winner.

But Cincinnati fans never give up.

What will happen this year? General Manager Gabe Paul says the club will finish in the first division "and, with good fortune going with us, we could do much better than that."

Manager Fred Hutchinson didn't go that far.

"We have a fine ball club," he said Monday. "The players have worked hard, they have cooperated, and they are in good shape."

Most of the experts have tabbed the Reds for a fourth place finish. They have picked the Phillies for last. The Phils were eighth last year and the Reds tied the Chicago Cubs for fifth.

Last year Cincinnati was the league's top run scorer but Paul says the club was not balanced. This year, he contends, it has the balance.

During the off-season, Cincinnati bolstered its pitching staff by getting starter Cal McLish from the Cleveland Indians and reliever Bill Henry from the Cubs.

The Reds had to give up star second baseman Johnny Temple to the Indians but they got veteran Billy Martin to take his place. They sent the Cubs Frank Thomas, a fielding and hitting flop here last year.

Martin was to be in the starting lineup today. The only other newcomer scheduled to start was rookie Tony Gonzalez in right field.

The Phils were scheduled to start a flock of new players as part of a youth movement designed to bring them out of last place.

It was no surprise, of course, that Robin Roberts was named to pitch for the Phillies. A couple of months ago few persons would have figured Jim Brosnan, a native Cincinnati, would be the Reds' starter.

Brosnan was impressive enough through spring training, however, to be picked over McLish for the opener.

Williamsport Rallies to Edge Atlanta

The Bronco baseballers of Ashville breezed to their second win in two starts with a 20-3 victory over visiting Cedarville yesterday. Both wins have been in Darby Valley League play.

Strong hitting, good pitching by Dick Wilcox and wildness by Cedarville pitchers contributed to the Ashville win. The Broncos rallied 11 hits, three each by Bob Hoover and Tom Rathburn.

Wilcox permitted only three safeties, fanned 11 and walked two. Cedarville hurlers allowed 16 walks to help account for the large margin.

Ashville's only extra-base blow was a double by Kuhlwein. Gay had a triple and Dayton a two-bagger for Cedarville.

Coach Russ Gregg's Broncos scored four runs in each of the first two innings, then exploded with nine in the third. Their final three came in the fourth. Cedarville tallied two in the second and one in the fifth.

The Broncos resume action today with a game at Chillicothe Central Catholic. Thursday they go to Triad for another Darby Valley League engagement.

Golfing WITH ALEX MORRISON

LESSON No. 6

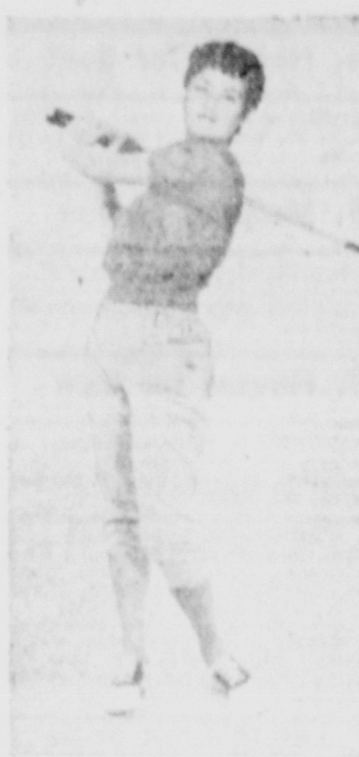

Practice Fixing Attention

One peculiarity about golf is — the correct swing never becomes completely automatic for any player. The proper positions and movements are the exact opposite of what any person would do instinctively.

Accordingly, when any player's performance is governed largely by instinct, he stands every chance of failing. So the real purpose is warming up before a game should be the fixing of attention on swing essentials as well as loosening up muscles and joints.

The need for this is mainly in proportion to each individual's regularity of play and his skill in executing swing fundamentals. In no case should any great amount of time or exercising be needed for the proper fixing of attention. A good part of the job can be done simply by swinging two clubs back and forth easily.

While doing this you can focus on essentials such as your heel and toe balance, firmness in gripping with your left little fingers and holding your head steady throughout the swing.

Swinging two clubs easily before playing helps you to swing and score better.

Cavalier Nine Here Today

The Circleville Tiger baseball team will make another attempt today to continue its season.

Chillicothe will provide the opposition at Ted Lewis Park today. The test is slated to start at about 4:30 p. m.

The Tigers opened the season Thursday with the same Chillicothe team, absorbing an 8-0 defeat. Hoping to be rid of their first game jitters, the locals definitely will seek a measure of revenge today.

Pitcher Sam Weller was out of school yesterday with a sore throat, but may be ready for action. Danny Leonhardt probably will get the mound assignment if Weller hasn't recuperated.

CHILICOTHE possibly may start Keith Cunningham, the fire-balling right-hander who chalked 12 strikeouts in four innings against the Tigers Thursday.

Coach Dick Fisher said he may switch Leonhardt to the outfield if Weller is able to hurl. He said the move would be to get more power in the batting order.

College Boxer Saddened by Foe's Injury

NEW YORK (AP) — "We're good friends. Why, only a few minutes before the bout we were talking. We always talked boxing to each other before our bouts. And then this had to happen."

Stu Bartell, a husky 23-year-old San Jose State College junior, spoke in a choked voice today as he maintained a vigil in his Brooklyn home praying that Charlie Mohr would recover.

It was Bartell who stopped Mohr in the second round of the 165-pound division of the NCAA boxing championships last Saturday. Mohr, a 22-year-old Wisconsin senior, walked out of the ring and collapsed in the dressing room. He underwent a three-hour operation to stem the flow of blood resulting from an injury to the brain.

Now Mohr, still unconscious, hangs onto a thread of life at the University of Wisconsin Hospital while Bartell awaits word.

"He seemed perfectly all right before the bout," said Bartell. "In fact, I don't think one of my punches landed on his head. I connected to the chin and he looked glassy-eyed."

"I knew I had him going. You always know when you've got your opponent on the run in a bout. Then I pressed in more. I connected again and he went down, but the officials called it a slip. I'm sure my punch knocked him down."

This was to be a rubber match between the pair. They had met twice before and each had won a decision.

MONROE
By Marie Dingus
Wednesday the Juniors had a stock sale dinner and did well on it. Now they are concentrating on decorations for the Junior and Senior Banquet.

On Friday, the Eighth Grade took the Eighth Grade tests. We hope they did good and applied everything they have learned.

Tuesday, the Freshmen had a skating party. They had a good crowd. Even though there were quite a few bruised knees, everyone enjoyed themselves.

The Seventh Grade English class has been outlining individual stories selected from the textbooks and writing the summaries in their own interpretation.

THEY have prepared note cards which they used in giving their oral reviews of the chosen selections. They are endeavoring to improve personality, posture, speech, comprehension and the ability to interpret in their own way the materials read.

Yes, the time arrived for the Eighth Grade examination, for which the members have waited.

During the past few weeks, they concentrated on all materials which they have studied. They were eager and very enthusiastic in learning the outcome of their eight years of study. We are hoping each member will be able to say, "My Dreams have come true."

The Ninth Grade English class completed its workbooks and have taken the test for the fifth six weeks.

The Tenth Grade English class has completed its tabulations, outlines and summaries covering the last unit of the literature book. It has completed its English workbook and has taken their tests over

National League Starts Solving Pennant Problem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Can the Dodgers do it again? Have the Giants found the pitcher? Can Chuck Dressen regain the touch with the Braves or can the Braves regain the touch with Chuck Dressen?
The answer to one question will answer them all, and the National League gets to work on the quiz season a week ahead of the American League.

The world champion Dodgers, still at home in the spacious and audacious Los Angeles Coliseum, open with a night game against the Chicago Cubs. Milwaukee's Braves, who lost the 1959 pennant in a playoff with the Dodgers, and the San Francisco Giants, popular pre-season picks, open at home in afternoon games—the Braves against Pittsburgh and the Giants in their new Candlestick Park against St. Louis.

The Cincinnati Reds, as usual, also open at home, against Philadelphia.

While today's openers come a couple of days later than last year's, the majors have come up with a rare split bill. American League clubs, still playing exhibitions in Florida, don't start playing for real until Monday, when Washington and Boston stage the traditional opener in the nation's capital.

It's right-hander Don Drysdale, whose troubles in a 17-13 season made it tough for the Dodgers a year ago, against the Cubs and right-hander Bob Anderson. Dodger manager Walt Alton has named virtually the same line-up that won it all last season—Gil Hodges at first, Charlie Neal at second, Maury Wills at short, Junior Gilliam at third, Wally Moon, Don Demeter and Duke Snider in the outfield and John Roseboro behind the plate.

The Cubs, with Charlie Grimm replacing Bob Scheffing for his third stand as manager, have four new faces among the starters, but only one is a rookie, Richie Ashburn, late of the Phillies, is in center; Frank Thomas, last with Cincinnati, at third; Don Zimmer, long a Dodger, at short, and newcomer Lou Johnson in right.

The Giants, who blew a two-game lead in the last 10 days of the season a year ago, picked 21-game winner Sam Jones for their debut in the new 15-million-dollar park against the Cards and right-hander Larry Rigney, on the spot in what shapes up as another three-way fight with the Dodgers and Braves, has Don Blasingame at second base, but the rest of the Giant line-up is about the same. The big difference is in the bullpen and on the bench with the addition of pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loe from Baltimore. Dale Long from the Cubs and Jim Marshall from Boston.

Right fielder Leon Wagner and shortstop Daryl Spencer, whom the Giants gave up to get Blasingame as a leadoff hitter, were in Manager Solly Hemus' starting line-up for the Cards.
Milwaukee, missing a third straight pennant under Fred Haney by just one game last year, tries this time with Dressen, a manager again after serving as a coach with the Dodgers. Dressen, who bossed pennant winners at Brooklyn, had just one rookie left fielder Al Spangler, in the line-up behind southpaw Warren Spahn (21-15).
The Pirates, trying to delay Spahn's 28th victory, started with slumped-down right-hander Bob Friend (8-19). Catcher Hal Smith, previously with Kansas City, was the only newcomer in Manager Danny Murtaugh's starting line-up.

The new faces club is Philadelphia. Manager Eddie Sawyer, whose Phillies are almost a unanimous pick to finish last again, named only three holdovers from last April — starting right-hander Robin Roberts (15-17), making his 11th consecutive opening day appearance; left fielder Harry Anderson, and first baseman Ed Bouchee.
Manager Freddie Hutchinson picked Jim Brosnan (9-), a right-hander, to start for the Reds, Billy Martin, acquired in the swap that sent Johnny Temple to Cleveland, made his NL debut at second base with rookie Tony Gonzalez in right.

Given a break by the weather, the National expected to set an opening day attendance record. A crowd of 50,000 is the hope at Los Angeles, which could swell the day's total to about 15,000.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Ernie Kovacs, usually involved with broad jokes and gaudy gags, turned up on the home screen Monday night as an urbane murderer. The playlet, on NBC's Goodyear Theater, was "Author at Work," a comedy in the French manner.
The tale concerned one Honore St. Etienne, bookkeeper turned blackmailer and played by Henry Jones, who does marvelous meandering bookkeeping. After 10 years of diligent research he has proved that the plots of world-famous novelist Maximilian Kroh are based on the maestro's own experiences. The plots in 22 books add up to 22 murders. St. Etienne suggests a small pension in exchange for silence.
"I have no imagination," replies Kroh, suavely loading a gun. "I can only write that I experience."

National League Starts Solving Pennant Problem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Can the Dodgers do it again? Have the Giants found the pitching? Can Chuck Dressen regain the touch with the Braves or can the Braves regain the touch with Chuck Dressen?

The answer to one question will answer them all, and the National League gets to work on the quiz season a week ahead of the American League.

The world champion Dodgers, still at home in the spacious and audacious Los Angeles Coliseum, open with a night game against the Chicago Cubs. Milwaukee's Braves, who lost the 1959 pennant in a playoff with the Dodgers, and the San Francisco Giants, popular pre-season picks, open at home in afternoon games—the Braves against Pittsburgh and the Giants in their new Candlestick Park against St. Louis.

The Cincinnati Reds, as usual, also open at home, against Philadelphia.

While today's openers come a couple of days later than last year's, the majors have come up with a rare split bill. American League clubs, still playing exhibitions in Florida, don't start playing for real until Monday, when Washington and Boston stage the traditional opener in the nation's capital.

It's right-hander Don Drysdale, whose troubles in a 17-13 season made it tough for the Dodgers a year ago, against the Cubs and right-hander Bob Anderson. Dodger manager Walt Alston has named virtually the same line-up that won it all last season—Gil Hodges at first, Charlie Neal at second, Maury Wills at short, Junior Gilliam at third, Walke Moon, Don Demeter and Duke Snider in the outfield and John Roseboro behind the plate.

The Cubs, with Charlie Grimm replacing Bob Scheffing for his third stand as manager, have four new faces among the starters, but only one is a rookie. Richie Ashburn, late of the Phillies, is in center; Frank Thomas, last with Cincinnati, at third; Don Zimmer, long a Dodger, at short, and newcomer Lou Johnson in right.

The Giants, who blew a two-game lead in the last 10 days of the season a year ago, picked 21-game winner Sam Jones for their debut in the new 15-million-dollar park against the Cards and right-hander Larry Jackson (14-13).

Manager Billy Rigney, on the spot in what shapes up as another three-way fight with the Dodgers and Braves, has Don Blasingame at second base, but the rest of the Giant line-up is about the same. The big difference is in the bullpen and on the bench with the addition of pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes from Baltimore.

Right fielder Leon Wagner and shortstop Daryl Spencer, whom the Giants gave up to get Blasingame as a leadoff hitter, were in Manager Solly Hemus' starting line-up for the Cards.

Milwaukee, missing a third straight pennant under Fred Haney by just one game last year, tries this time with Dressen, a manager again after serving as a coach with the Dodgers. Dressen, who bossed pennant winners at Brooklyn, had just one rookie left fielder Al Spangler, in the line-up behind southpaw Warren Spahn (21-15).

The Pirates, trying to delay Spahn's 28th victory, started with slimmed-down right-hander Bob Friend (8-19). Catcher Hal Smith, previously with Kansas City, was the only newcomer in Manager Danny Murtaugh's starting line-up.

The new faces club is Philadelphia. Manager Eddie Sawyer, whose Phillies are almost a unanimous pick to finish last again, named only three holdovers from last April—starting right-hander Robin Roberts (15-17), making his 11th consecutive opening day appearance; left fielder Harry Anderson, and first baseman Ed Bouchee.

Manager Freddie Hutchinson picked Jim Brosnan (9-), a right-hander, to start for the Reds, Billy Martin, acquired in the swap that sent Johnny Temple to Cleveland, made his NL debut at second base with rookie Tony Gonzalez in right.

Given a break by the weather, the National expected to set an opening day attendance record. A crowd of 50,000 is the hope at Los Angeles, which could swell the day's total to about 15,000.

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — Passersby sometimes get the impression a tree is growing upside down in Dr. T. Edwin O'Brien's yard. The family explains that it isn't even a tree, but an enormous vine planted by Louis G. Merritt, the home's former owner. Because of a kind of "trunk" and downward pointing "branches," the vine gives the appearance of an upside down tree.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Kovacs, usually involved with broad jokes and sly gags, turned up on the home screen Monday night as an urbane murderer. The playlet, on NBC's Goodyear Theater, was "Author at Work," a comedy in the French manner.

The tale concerned one Honore St. Etienne, bookkeeper turned blackmailer and played by Henry Jones, who does marvelous meandering bookkeepers. After 10 years of diligent research he has proved that the plots of world-famous novelist Maximilian Kroh are based on the maestro's own experiences. The plots in 22 books add up to 22 murders. St. Etienne suggests a small pension in exchange for silence.

"I have no imagination," replies Kroh, suavely loading a gun. "I can only write that I experience."

End of bookkeeper, beginning of new book, and curtain. Unfortunately, most of us are now so accustomed to Alfred Hitchcock's sophisticated and gay killers the ending came as no particular surprise.

NBC still has its fall schedule only pencilled in and many entries are subject to change, but a number of current shows appear likely to be sunk in that network's channels, among them Alcoa-Goodyear and "M-Squad."

Recommended tonight: Red Skelton Show, CBS, 9:30-10—with Audrey Meadows in a topical sketch about census takers; Garry Moore Show, CBS 10-11 — Patrice Munsel and comedian Alan King join the Moores show regularly.

$37,500 Bequest Is Left To Assure Responsible Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late Lowell Mellett willed $37,500 for a program to find ways of making sure America's newspapers are responsible.

The bequest was made to the American Newspaper Guild by the veteran newspaperman who became a close aide of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Mellett died Thursday at the age of 76.

In a 16-year-old letter to the guild, made public at a memorial meeting Sunday, Mellett suggested that the Guild make an annual award for the best thinking on the subject. But he left the final decision on using the money to Guild officials.

Mellett wrote the letter Oct. 4, 1943 at the same time he made provisions for the bequest. In the letter, he said:

"Irresponsible power is dangerous, under any form of government, in any kind of society. Yet the power exerted by the American press comes close to being irresponsible."

"How to find a means of curing this condition without curtailing freedom of expression has thus far proved baffling . . .

"Publishers, even those with the best purposes, have not succeeded in solving the problem. It may be that those men and women who constitute what is called the working press can do better."

Affiliated with the AFL-CIO, the Guild is a labor organization mainly comprising newspapermen.

Mellett was editor of the Washington Daily News for 16 years before joining Roosevelt's inner circle in 1940. From 1944 to 1956, he was a columnist with the Washington Star.

His bequest was in the form of 1,884 shares of stock in the Scripps-Howard Investment Co. They currently are worth $20 each.

Congressional law states that the American flag should not be displayed on days when the weather is inclement.

Miss Barnes Back After 10-Day Tour With Vocal Group

Miss Virginia Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Barnes, Williamsport, is a member of the Otterbein Women's Glee Club which has just completed a 10-day concert tour of the East.

In addition to their singing engagements, the girls spent several days sight-seeing at Niagara Falls, Boston and New York.

The 40-voice club is under the direction of Dr. Lee Shackson, head of the Music Department of Otterbein College. Miss Barnes has been a private voice pupil of Miss Olive Bookwalter, Clarksburg.

State Objects To Akron City Boat Licenses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Department of Natural Resources went to the attorney general Monday in an attempt to stop the city of Akron from issuing separate boat licenses.

Herbert B. Eagon, department director, asked Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy to "commence the action necessary to prohibit the issuance or requirement of separate boat licenses."

Eagon said he believes Akron is violating state laws which give boat licensing authority to the State Division of Watercraft—an agency of the Natural Resources Department—and prohibit political sub-divisions from charging additional fees.

He said Akron officials indicate they believe the restrictive phase of the state law to be unconstitutional and will close Mogadore Reservoir to boating if it is upheld.
